Commissioners, Health Director $3,000 Apart On Levy's Return

Pickaway County commissioners disagreed with the county health commissioner by more than $3,000 late Wednesday on the amount a proposed levy would raise to pay for hospital treatment of the county's tuberculosis patients.

Immediate point at issue is whether the proposed levy—three-tenths of a mill for five years—is greater than necessary to provide adequate care. Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health head, estimated Tuesday the levy would bring in $27,000 a year. An official estimate released in the name of the commissioners figures the annual return at $23,886.29.

The official estimate, compiled by County Auditor Fred Tipton, was issued with the approval of Commissioner Lyman Penn. Penn said the commissioners consider it highly important to have the public given a "clear understanding" of the proposed levy before it is placed before county voters next Tuesday.

Dr. Blackburn had issued figures "to clear up a possible wrong impression" in the public's mind after partial data had been released by Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association. The association has announced full support of the levy filed by the commissioners.

IN FIGURING the levy would bring in $27,000 yearly, Dr. Blackburn pointed to the fact that the county paid only about $20,000 for treatment of its tuberculosis patients in hospitals last year. He said he could not see the need of the additional money indicated by a comparison of those two totals. Dr. Blackburn also said the amount of the levy already had been reduced once on his recommendation.

Tipton estimated the countywide valuation at $79,620,990 in arriving at a calculated annual return of $23,886.29 on the proposed levy. He said he did not know the basis used by the health commissioner in arriving at the $27,000 figure, confining his data merely to a report of figures as now listed on the county records.

Tipton also estimated the county this year, "if we continue at the same rate we have been," will spend $23,095.51 for care of the tuberculosis patients in hospitals. Thus the total cost figured by the auditor for this year is only $886.29 under the annual return he figured for the levy.

The county auditor, in commenting on Dr. Blackburn's estimate, said it is true the total countywide valuation may increase. He stressed, however, that there is no reliable way in which to measure such gain, "and for that matter the countywide valuation can decrease too—we don't know." His estimated valuation, he said, was on present real estate, public utilities and personal property totals.

While Tipton took no stand on the question of whether the amount of the levy is too high, the figures

Ike Satisfies Most Of GOP On Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's promise to do some campaigning appeared to have satisfied most Republicans today that they will have ample White House help in next year's battle for control of Congress.

Eisenhower said a week ago he wasn't going to use the presidency as an agency in partisan elections. Yesterday he told his news conference that to say he wasn't interested in retaining a GOP Congress was like saying he had no interest in drawing his next breath.

While he stuck to his statement he won't campaign for individuals, he said in response to questions he likes posing for pictures with candidates, may pat some of them on the back and will do his part, within bounds, to publicize the GOP records to the voters.

Some party members said privately that Eisenhower's avowed dislike for purely political activities might dissolve in the face of an expected strong Democratic threat to take over Congress.

Sen. Duff (R-Pa), one of the first to back Eisenhower for the presidency last year, said that so far as they go the President's plans are fine. "But I think he will find as time goes on that he is going to have to dig deeper."

GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said the President's statement was "entirely satisfactory to me."

Leist Blasts Foes' Claims On Annexation

Ervin Leist, manager of the Circleville water and sewage department, pulled the rug Thursday from under one of the main arguments advanced by those opposed to the city's current annexation move.

He declared his department "sees nothing insurmountable" in the problems to be met in a large area marked for annexation north of the corporation. Foes of the annexation step have claimed sewer and water line problems in the area would prove so difficult they could block the whole program in that section.

Under procedure set by law, the annexation plan now is being considered by Pickaway County commissioners. Their decision on the proposal is not expected until after a public hearing is held on it here.

Referring to the claim that the new area would not be adequately served with sewer and water lines, Leist said:

"SUCH TALK of course is without any foundation in fact. We have problems ahead of us, and we'll continue to meet problems as we go along—they always do in connection with big projects.

"However, I'm very familiar with the area to be annexed and I see nothing insurmountable in the annexation picture. In one way or another, the sewer and water line development will be able to keep in step with the program."

The water-sewage department manager pointed to steps already under way in the vicinity of Cedar Heights.

"We are already making water available to the areas adjacent to Cedar Heights," he said, "and this is being done with the whole northern area in mind."

Border Killings Slated For Official Rap In U.N. Council Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Western Big Three were reported ready today to urge a U. N. Security Council rebuke against Israel for the recent border killings in an adjoining Arab village, and to call for more U. N. "watchdogs" in the troubled area.

Israel Chief Delegate Abba S. Eban also served notice he intends to go over the whole Middle East security question before the council today. Eban accused the Arab states last night of conniving to keep up tension in Palestine.

Western sources said Britain, France and the United States would submit a resolution to the council late today, denouncing the armed Israeli raid on the Jordan village of Kibya which cost 53 Arab lives. They said the resolution also would call for more truce supervisors in Palestine.

Steps to create a bigger, more prosperous Circleville have been moving ahead, but action would have to be increased tremendously in order to catch up with the rapid expansion program taking place in Chillicothe.

Test wells were being drilled Thursday just north of Chillicothe along Route 23 in preparation for establishing a new, 140-home development to be known as "Chillicothe Manor."

The project, being developed on the land of Edward L. Smith of near Circleville and located just west of Route 23 near the La Villa Motel, will complete a 1,000-house program begun for FHA a year ago in a four-county area around the site of the new atomic plant near Waverly.

"Chillicothe Manor," with more than $1.3 million of FHA insured loans, will include 90 three-bedroom homes to be rented at $85 per month, 25 three-bedroom homes to be sold at $10,800 each and another 25 two-bedroom homes designed to sell at $9,550 each.

WESTERN New York Developers Inc. of Rochester, N. Y., said the new project will have its own community sanitary sewer and water supply. Chillicothe officials earlier had turned down requests to supply the services.

In an earlier program, a Western Hills Apartments with 160 rental units was begun on Carlisle Hill in Chillicothe.

General Motors Hits Record High

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp., biggest manufacturing firm in the world, sold more products in the first nine months of 1953 than in any full calendar year in its history.

Sales for the nine months were just under $8 billion or 43 per cent above the $5½ billion reported for the first nine months last year. Net income for the nine months came to $453 million after provision of $1,006,000,000 for income and excess profits taxes. Earnings on the common stock were equal to $5.08 a share, compared with $4.32 a share in the first nine months of 1952.

Storm Warnings Continue On Lake

Weaker Sex 'Myth' Rapped; Women 'Smarter' Than Men

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Weaker sex?

Rubbish! says Dr. William G. Leaman Jr., Philadelphia heart specialist, who stunned Oklahoma Clinical Society delegates (mostly male) with the bold statement:

"Women are smarter than men!"

The weaker sex idea, he said, just permits the ladies to live a less exerting life and outlive their male counterparts by an average of six to seven years. "The man beyond 50 can't resist the temptation to shovel snow," said Leaman. "Men like to show off, to prove they are big and strong."

He said by keeping alive the weaker sex idea, women don't have to overexert themselves to prove they still have their old vim and vigor.

It is extremely rare, he said, to make a diagnosis of heart disease in a woman under 40 who has neither high blood pressure nor diabetes. However, when a woman does have the same heart ailment as a man, she tolerates it better.

Added proof to explode the age-old myth of female weakness was offered.

"Women can lose more blood.

"Women can stand more shock.

"They can go into a profession and hold their own provided men don't give them an inferiority complex.

"They can hold down a job, take care of a home and family, and, at the same time, guard the supposedly stronger male."

As a finale, Dr. Leaman added: "It is a woman's world if she wants to admit it and claim it. But perhaps she would be unwise to do so."

Dr. Leaman is chairman of the department of medicine at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Restaurant Has No Tie In Raid

Location of the scene where Circleville police staged a raid on 11 persons accused of gambling has been referred to "in the rear of," "at the rear of" and "behind" the Little Midget restaurant on W. Main St.

Actually, the name of the restaurant was employed only to fix the exact location of the raid scene. The restaurant itself had no connection with the raid, which was staged in a small building at the rear and operated as a part of "Pud's Place," which is inconspicuous with only a doorway entrance at street level.

Ohioan Claims Insanity In Slaying Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A defense witness in the murder trial of Robert Stober, said the 20-year-old Ada, Ohio, defendant was legally insane at the time a liquor store operator was slain.

Stober is on trial for the murder of George Fremin, 53, during a holdup at the latter's store Oct. 4, 1952. Stober pleaded innocent to the charge and innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

Dr. H. R. Unsworth, a neuropsychiatrist, testified last night that in his opinion Stober could distinguish right from wrong, but could not control his behavior nor choose between the two while in an epileptic seizure.

He was the second defense witness after the state rested earlier in the night.

Dr. Unsworth said on cross examination that so far as he knew, Stober had no history of epilepsy and had no previous seizures until the night of the holdup.

The state succeeded in having an eight-page statement by Stober read to the jury despite the protest of Defense Attorney F. Irvin Dymond that it was incomplete. The statement was made to Asst. Dist. Atty. Raoul Sere who asked the Ohio man if he had said he shot Fremin.

"I guess so," the statement read.

"Regarding the gun which the state claimed was the murder weapon, Stober said he had bought it in Ada from a friend who "needed the money bad."

"I never got anything so cheap," Stober said.

Fourth Of Quads Dies In Michigan

The little boy who lost his fight for life was the last of the quadruplets to be born, and also was the largest—2 pounds 10 ounces.

Neutral Panel Plans Surprise

Korea Hears Reports POWs May Relax Balk

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The promise of a surprising announcement tomorrow touched off reports here today that balky anti-Communist Korean prisoners have agreed to abandon their stubborn refusal to attend interviews with Red explainers.

Communist demands that the Koreans be forced to attend (at gunpoint if necessary have) all but wrecked the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the deadlocked commission, touched off the speculation with a cryptic statement that he would have a "surprising" announcement Friday.

Neither Thimayya nor other Indian officers would amplify his remarks, but a reliable source said the announcement would concern the reluctant 7,800 North Korean prisoners.

Their agreement to attend Red efforts to persuade them to return to their Red-dominated homelands would be a major victory for Thimayya. The Indian general has fought to prevent a blowup of the NNRC while striving to convince the POWs they should attend.

A SURPRISING announcement could, of course, take several other forms.

The Communist Polish and Czech members of the deadlocked NNRC could drop their demand that Indian troops use whatever force necessary to make the North Koreans attend explanations.

The Swiss and Swedish members could drop their opposition to using force.

Thimayya, who has consistently taken the position that force cannot be used on the North Koreans unless it is unanimously okayed by the entire commission, could change his mind, agree with the Polish and Czech delegations, and declare that force would be used.

Special Envoy Believes Reds Show Interest

PANMUNJOM (AP)—U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean today proposed a fresh approach to the problem of arranging a Korean peace conference, but the Communists retorted with an angry but "polite" blast.

He told the Reds to "stop the nonsense" of demanding seats for neutrals at a peace conference and get on with the business of fixing a time and place for the political conference.

When that job is completed, he said, he'll be willing to talk about who will attend.

Despite the Communist tirade, Dean said the Communists showed a "good deal of interest" in his new proposal to sidestep the agenda, put off debate on the neutrals and discuss a time and place for the conference immediately.

The Reds did not reply directly, but Dean noted that while they heaped angry words on him "they are outwardly polite and outwardly interested."

"WHENEVER the Communists are on a weak spot they hurl invective and abuse on the other side. You've got to expect it and leave your personal feelings out of the conference room," he told newsmen outside the conference hut in Korea's neutral zone.

When he finished North Korean Foreign Ministray representative Ki Sok Bok leveled a stinging attack at him.

Yesterday, the American had called Communist China and North Korea "agents" of Russia and said the Soviets poured weapons into Red Korea during the war.

The Communist delegate called this "an intolerable insult" and said Dean was trying to reduce "these talks to a site for your utterances of invectives.

"This fully indicates that the United States government has no sincerity whatsoever to expedite an early convening of the political conference."

The Red delegate lodged a "strong protest" and insisted that he "retract this rude misstatement."

Dean told correspondents that what he said "is a fact. How can I retract it"

U. S. Tells World Of Red Atrocities

6,113 Americans Among 29,815 Probable Victims Of Slaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has laid before the world a documented indictment of Communist atrocities in Korea listing 6,113 Americans as probable victims.

It tells how captured GIs were dragged on death marches, roasted alive, lined up and shot. The document, compiled by the Army's war crimes division and released last night, includes charts and graphs and photographs of bound, charred bodies.

A total of 29,815 "probable" atrocity victims of all nationalities were listed.

The statistics weren't new. They closely corresponded to an official estimate of 6,000 released after Col. James M. Hanley of a war crimes investigation unit first brought mass Red atrocities to public notice in November 1951.

But in the Army's new report, what survivors had to say was grim reading.

The report indicated most of the atrocities occurred in the first year of the war when the North Koreans invaded South Korea.

THERE WAS a smaller upsurge when the Chinese entered the war and hurled the Allies back from the region of the Yalu River.

The Chinese were charged with 27.3 per cent, the North Koreans with almost all the rest.

The Army said, "It is an interesting fact that the North Korean Peoples Army slaughtered most civilians during September 1950. Of these, 14,602 or 84.6 per cent were slain in the last four days of the month."

That included the "Taejon massacre," where the Reds were said to have killed the occupants of the South Korean city in batches of hundreds at a time—among them 42 Americans.

What was not spelled out in the Army's report was the reason for issuing the detailed account at this time. Its issuance seemed related to a report to the United Nations three days ago by Dr. Charles Mayo, a U.N. delegate and famous American surgeon.

Dr. Mayo's report gave a scientific account of how the Reds compelled "confessions" from American war prisoners about germ warfare, a propaganda point often employed by the Communists.

Spokesmen said the Army report was prepared and released for publication with the knowledge and cooperation of other government agencies, including the State Department.

There were clues to the Army's reason in a statement by Secretary Robert T. Stevens which accompanied the text.

HE SAID releasing details of such "cold-blooded torture and murder is one of the best answers that can be given to anyone who questions the need for strong military defenses."

And he said also:

"It exposes the enemy for what he is. All of the sickening detail of horror and calculated brutality spells out the fact that we cannot relax our defense efforts while such threats to free peoples exist."

A "fact sheet" based on the report is being furnished all commanders for use in troop discussion sessions.

The Army has had the affidavits, investigation findings and pictures in its possession since the early days of the Korean War.

But policy makers had debated whether the ghastly details should be released because of the impact on relatives of men reported dead or missing.

The prospect that any war criminals would be brought to trial is remote. Out of the accumulation of evidence, rumors, accusations and confessions by captured enemy soldiers the Army has prepared material for trial in 43 cases.

But the accused, as well as some witnesses, have gone from American hands. Some of them were released in the exchange of war prisoners last summer. Others disappeared in the mass breakouts from war prisoner camps last June.

The report drew a swift demand today from Capitol Hill for "drastic punitive action."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, announced he is calling for a report from the U. S. delegation to the United Nations on "what steps are being taken to see that these brutalities do not go unpunished."

Another member of the committee, Sen. Green (D-RI), said he thought "President Eisenhower very well might instruct the U. S. delegation to take this up with the U. N."

U.S. Still Cool On Top Talks

Ike, Dulles Repeating 'No' To Red Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles seem to be trying, slowly and painstakingly, to rid the free world of the idea that a top-level talk with Soviet Premier Malenkov might bring world peace.

As is obvious from repeated public statements, they regard the idea as a vain illusion.

Eisenhower, at his news conference yesterday, sought to deflate the value of personal diplomacy, a value which has tended to grow in recent months, in part because of the repeated proposals of British Prime Minister Churchill for an East-West talk between chiefs of government.

Eisenhower has been asked questions about the possibility of such a meeting with greater frequency perhaps than questions on any other subject. Dulles, pressed for his views, has also had the problem as a diplomat of trying to dissuade Churchill from pressing the matter.

TOGETHER, Eisenhower and Dulles have had constantly to reckon with public opinion and the intense hope for a miracle of peace which creates political pressures, especially in England and Western Europe.

The President has been inclined to take the positive line that he would be glad to meet anybody halfway around the world if he thought that would do any good for peace. Dulles tended to press a somewhat more negative argument saying the United States was always ready for negotiation but was not interested in talks without evidence of Communist good will.

Eisenhower said yesterday it would be perfectly hopeless to have such a meeting until he knows there is an honest purpose behind Russian interest in it. Indicating he does not think such purpose exists today, he reminded reporters there had been many examples of meetings in the past being used primarily for propaganda.

Costello Freed From Federal Pen

DETROIT (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello became a free man today after serving out a federal prison term for contempt of the U. S. government.

He left the prison 35 miles west of here upon completing approximately 13 months of an 18-month sentence.

But freedom for Costello may be limited. The government is trying to deport him to his native Sicily as an undesirable. It wants to take away his citizenship.

Steps to create a bigger, more prosperous Circleville have been moving ahead, but action would have to be increased tremendously in order to catch up with the rapid expansion program taking place in Chillicothe.

Test wells were being drilled Thursday just north of Chillicothe along Route 23 in preparation for establishing a new, 140-home development to be known as "Chillicothe Manor."

The project, being developed on the land of Edward L. Smith of near Circleville and located just west of Route 23 near the La Villa Motel, will complete a 1,000-house program begun for FHA a year ago in a four-county area around the site of the new atomic plant near Waverly.

"Chillicothe Manor," with more than $1.3 million of FHA insured loans, will include 90 three-bedroom homes to be rented at $85 per month, 25 three-bedroom homes to be sold at $10,800 each and another 25 two-bedroom homes designed to sell at $9,550 each.

WESTERN New York Developers Inc. of Rochester, N. Y., said the new project will have its own community sanitary sewer and water supply. Chillicothe officials earlier had turned down requests to supply the services.

In an earlier program, a Western Hills Apartments with 160 rental units was begun on Carlisle Hill in Chillicothe.

General Motors Hits Record High

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp., biggest manufacturing firm in the world, sold more products in the first nine months of 1953 than in any full calendar year in its history.

Sales for the nine months were just under $8 billion or 43 per cent above the $5½ billion reported for the first nine months last year. Net income for the nine months came to $453 million after provision of $1,006,000,000 for income and excess profits taxes. Earnings on the common stock were equal to $5.08 a share, compared with $4.32 a share in the first nine months of 1952.

Storm Warnings Continue On Lake

The bureau said it would be mostly cloudy with rain over the eastern portion of the lake.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Weaker sex?

Rubbish! says Dr. William G. Leaman Jr., Philadelphia heart specialist, who stunned Oklahoma Clinical Society delegates (mostly male) with the bold statement:

"Women are smarter than men!"

The weaker sex idea, he said, just permits the ladies to live a less exerting life and outlive their male counterparts by an average of six to seven years. "The man beyond 50 can't resist the temptation to shovel snow," said Leaman. "Men like to show off, to prove they are big and strong."

He said by keeping alive the weaker sex idea, women don't have to overexert themselves to prove they still have their old vim and vigor.

It is extremely rare, he said, to make a diagnosis of heart disease in a woman under 40 who has neither high blood pressure nor diabetes. However, when a woman does have the same heart ailment as a man, she tolerates it better.

Added proof to explode the age-old myth of female weakness was offered.

"Women can lose more blood.

"Women can stand more shock.

"They can go into a profession and hold their own provided men don't give them an inferiority complex.

"They can hold down a job, take care of a home and family, and, at the same time, guard the supposedly stronger male."

As a finale, Dr. Leaman added: "It is a woman's world if she wants to admit it and claim it. But perhaps she would be unwise to do so."

Dr. Leaman is chairman of the department of medicine at the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Restaurant Has No Tie In Raid

Location of the scene where Circleville police staged a raid on 11 persons accused of gambling has been referred to "in the rear of," "at the rear of" and "behind" the Little Midget restaurant on W. Main St.

Actually, the name of the restaurant was employed only to fix the exact location of the raid scene. The restaurant itself had no connection with the raid, which was staged in a small building at the rear and operated as a part of "Pud's Place," which is inconspicuous with only a doorway entrance at street level.

Ohioan Claims Insanity In Slaying Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A defense witness in the murder trial of Robert Stober, said the 20-year-old Ada, Ohio, defendant was legally insane at the time a liquor store operator was slain.

Stober is on trial for the murder of George Fremin, 53, during a holdup at the latter's store Oct. 4, 1952. Stober pleaded innocent to the charge and innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

Dr. H. R. Unsworth, a neuropsychiatrist, testified last night that in his opinion Stober could distinguish right from wrong, but could not control his behavior nor choose between the two while in an epileptic seizure.

He was the second defense witness after the state rested earlier in the night.

Dr. Unsworth said on cross examination that so far as he knew, Stober had no history of epilepsy and had no previous seizures until the night of the holdup.

The state succeeded in having an eight-page statement by Stober read to the jury despite the protest of Defense Attorney F. Irvin Dymond that it was incomplete. The statement was made to Asst. Dist. Atty. Raoul Sere who asked the Ohio man if he had said he shot Fremin.

"I guess so," the statement read.

"Regarding the gun which the state claimed was the murder weapon, Stober said he had bought it in Ada from a friend who "needed the money bad."

"I never got anything so cheap," Stober said.

Fourth Of Quads Dies In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—"Baby Boy "A", "Baby Boy B" and "Baby Girl C" apparently were winning their battle for survival today, but "Baby Boy D" was dead.

The fourth tiny infant of the quadruplets born to Mrs. June E. Trollman, pretty dark-haired divorcee, died yesterday afternoon.

The little boy who lost his fight for life was the last of the quadruplets to be born, and also was the largest—2 pounds 10 ounces.

Thief Sends Note

CHICAGO (AP) — Four of Fred Semro's 27 homing pigeons which were stolen Tuesday night returned home last night, but tied to the leg of one was a note which read: "You'll never see the rest."

Neutral Panel Plans Surprise

Korea Hears Reports POWs May Relax Balk

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The promise of a surprising announcement tomorrow touched off reports here today that balky anti-Communist Korean prisoners have agreed to abandon their stubborn refusal to attend interviews with Red explainers.

Communist demands that the Koreans be forced to attend (at gunpoint if necessary have) all but wrecked the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the deadlocked commission, touched off the speculation with a cryptic statement that he would have a "surprising" announcement Friday.

Neither Thimayya nor other Indian officers would amplify his remarks, but a reliable source said the announcement would concern the reluctant 7,800 North Korean prisoners.

Their agreement to attend Red efforts to persuade them to return to their Red-dominated homelands would be a major victory for Thimayya. The Indian general has fought to prevent a blowup of the NNRC while striving to convince the POWs they should attend.

A SURPRISING announcement could, of course, take several other forms.

The Communist Polish and Czech members of the deadlocked NNRC could drop their demand that Indian troops use whatever force necessary to make the North Koreans attend explanations.

The Swiss and Swedish members could drop their opposition to using force.

Thimayya, who has consistently taken the position that force cannot be used on the North Koreans unless it is unanimously okayed by the entire commission, could change his mind, agree with the Polish and Czech delegations, and declare that force would be used.

Any one of these could happen. But no one here believed they would.

2 Duck Hunters Missing In Bay

TOLEDO (AP)—Coast Guard rescue teams were searching today for two duck hunters missing since Wednesday afternoon in Maumee Bay.

John McCue, 23, and Norman Perry, 24, both of Toledo, were the hunters. Two boats were sent from the Toledo Coast Guard station and a helicopter was summoned from Traverse City, Mich., to join the search.

Rain Is General Over Eastern U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — Rain or drizzle was general early today over wide areas in the eastern third of the nation after heavy rains in some areas yesterday.

The wet belt extended from the eastern Great Lakes and upper Ohio Valley eastward to southern New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

Special Envoy Believes Reds Show Interest

PANMUNJOM (AP)—U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean today proposed a fresh approach to the problem of arranging a Korean peace conference, but the Communists retorted with an angry but "polite" blast.

He told the Reds to "stop the nonsense" of demanding seats for neutrals at a peace conference and get on with the business of fixing a time and place for the political conference.

When that job is completed, he said, he'll be willing to talk about who will attend.

Despite the Communist tirade, Dean said the Communists showed a "good deal of interest" in his new proposal to sidestep the agenda, put off debate on the neutrals and discuss a time and place for the conference immediately.

The Reds did not reply directly, but Dean noted that while they heaped angry words on him "they are outwardly polite and outwardly interested."

"WHENEVER the Communists are on a weak spot they hurl invective and abuse on the other side. You've got to expect it and leave your personal feelings out of the conference room," he told newsmen outside the conference hut in Korea's neutral zone.

When he finished North Korean Foreign Ministray representative Ki Sok Bok leveled a stinging attack at him.

Yesterday, the American had called Communist China and North Korea "agents" of Russia and said the Soviets poured weapons into Red Korea during the war.

The Communist delegate called this "an intolerable insult" and said Dean was trying to reduce "these talks to a site for your utterances of invectives.

"This fully indicates that the United States government has no sincerity whatsoever to expedite an early convening of the political conference."

The Red delegate lodged a "strong protest" and insisted that he "retract this rude misstatement."

Dean told correspondents that what he said "is a fact. How can I retract it"

U. S. Tells World Of Red Atrocities

6,113 Americans Among 29,815 Probable Victims Of Slaughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has laid before the world a documented indictment of Communist atrocities in Korea listing 6,113 Americans as probable victims.

It tells how captured GIs were dragged on death marches, roasted alive, lined up and shot. The document, compiled by the Army's war crimes division and released last night, includes charts and graphs and photographs of bound, charred bodies.

A total of 29,815 "probable" atrocity victims of all nationalities were listed.

The statistics weren't new. They closely corresponded to an official estimate of 6,000 released after Col. James M. Hanley of a war crimes investigation unit first brought mass Red atrocities to public notice in November 1951.

But in the Army's new report, what survivors had to say was grim reading.

The report indicated most of the atrocities occurred in the first year of the war when the North Koreans invaded South Korea.

THERE WAS a smaller upsurge when the Chinese entered the war and hurled the Allies back from the region of the Yalu River.

The Chinese were charged with 27.3 per cent, the North Koreans with almost all the rest.

The Army said, "It is an interesting fact that the North Korean Peoples Army slaughtered most civilians during September 1950. Of these, 14,602 or 84.6 per cent were slain in the last four days of the month."

That included the "Taejon massacre," where the Reds were said to have killed the occupants of the South Korean city in batches of hundreds at a time—among them 42 Americans.

What was not spelled out in the Army's report was the reason for issuing the detailed account at this time. Its issuance seemed related to a report to the United Nations three days ago by Dr. Charles Mayo, a U.N. delegate and famous American surgeon.

Dr. Mayo's report gave a scientific account of how the Reds compelled "confessions" from American war prisoners about germ warfare, a propaganda point often employed by the Communists.

Spokesmen said the Army report was prepared and released for publication with the knowledge and cooperation of other government agencies, including the State Department.

There were clues to the Army's reason in a statement by Secretary Robert T. Stevens which accompanied the text.

HE SAID releasing details of such "cold-blooded torture and murder is one of the best answers that can be given to anyone who questions the need for strong military defenses."

And he said also:

"It exposes the enemy for what he is. All of the sickening detail of horror and calculated brutality spells out the fact that we cannot relax our defense efforts while such threats to free peoples exist."

A "fact sheet" based on the report is being furnished all commanders for use in troop discussion sessions.

The Army has had the affidavits, investigation findings and pictures in its possession since the early days of the Korean War.

But policy makers had debated whether the ghastly details should be released because of the impact on relatives of men reported dead or missing.

The prospect that any war criminals would be brought to trial is remote. Out of the accumulation of evidence, rumors, accusations and confessions by captured enemy soldiers the Army has prepared material for trial in 43 cases.

But the accused, as well as some witnesses, have gone from American hands. Some of them were released in the exchange of war prisoners last summer. Others disappeared in the mass breakouts from war prisoner camps last June.

The report drew a swift demand today from Capitol Hill for "drastic punitive action."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, announced he is calling for a report from the U. S. delegation to the United Nations on "what steps are being taken to see that these brutalities do not go unpunished."

Another member of the committee, Sen. Green (D-RI), said he thought "President Eisenhower very well might instruct the U. S. delegation to take this up with the U. N."

U.S. Still Cool On Top Talks

Ike, Dulles Repeating 'No' To Red Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles seem to be trying, slowly and painstakingly, to rid the free world of the idea that a top-level talk with Soviet Premier Malenkov might bring world peace.

As is obvious from repeated public statements, they regard the idea as a vain illusion.

Eisenhower, at his news conference yesterday, sought to deflate the value of personal diplomacy, a value which has tended to grow in recent months, in part because of the repeated proposals of British Prime Minister Churchill for an East-West talk between chiefs of government.

Eisenhower has been asked questions about the possibility of such a meeting with greater frequency perhaps than questions on any other subject. Dulles, pressed for his views, has also had the problem as a diplomat of trying to dissuade Churchill from pressing the matter.

TOGETHER, Eisenhower and Dulles have had constantly to reckon with public opinion and the intense hope for a miracle of peace which creates political pressures, especially in England and Western Europe.

The President has been inclined to take the positive line that he would be glad to meet anybody halfway around the world if he thought that would do any good for peace. Dulles tended to press a somewhat more negative argument saying the United States was always ready for negotiation but was not interested in talks without evidence of Communist good will.

Eisenhower said yesterday it would be perfectly hopeless to have such a meeting until he knows there is an honest purpose behind Russian interest in it. Indicating he does not think such purpose exists today, he reminded reporters there had been many examples of meetings in the past being used primarily for propaganda.

Costello Freed From Federal Pen

DETROIT (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello became a free man today after serving out a federal prison term for contempt of the U. S. government.

He left the prison 35 miles west of here upon completing approximately 13 months of an 18-month sentence.

But freedom for Costello may be limited. The government is trying to deport him to his native Sicily as an undesirable. It wants to take away his citizenship.

Vet List Holds Up

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University has about as many veterans enrolled this year as last, but this year a majority are Korean War vets. This year's total is 1,881. Last year there were 1,883, of which 1,452 came under the original GI Bill.

Special Envoy Believes Reds Show Interest

in arranging for the peace conference, promised the Reds that if they would first agree on a time and place for the conference he then was "prepared in good faith to exchange views to the fullest extent possible" on composition of the conference.

ONE SOURCE stressed that Dean's offer to exchange views is "no abandonment" of the United Nations position that only the belligerents, and Russia, if the Reds want her, should attend the conference.

"It still stands," said the source, that Dean "does not have any authority on his own" to change the U. N. stand on composition of the conference.

The Communist delegate repeated demands that neutral nations attend the peace conference and declared, "This is the firm and unalterable stand of our side."

South Korea's foreign minister, meanwhile, told a reporter he is optimistic over the chances for agreement in the preliminary talks and said his government will make a sincere effort to help the peace conference reach an agreement.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said South Korea still reserves the right to take independent action after Jan. 28—180 days after the Korean armistice was signed—unless a treaty is completed.

City Man Hurt In Auto Mishap

A Circleville man was injured at about 1:30 p. m. Thursday when he was struck by an auto while walking across the intersection of Court and Franklin Sts.

Police Sergeant George Green said "Jack" Thompson, about 70, of 443 S. Court St., apparently walked into the path of an auto which had been going east on Franklin St. and was turning south on Court St.

Green said the auto was operated by C. P. Heiskell of 711 N. Court St., who was unaware for a few moments that his auto had struck the man, the car dragging Thompson along.

Thompson was rushed into Berger hospital, where he was treated for lacerations and abrasions.

MARKETS

GRAIN FUTURES

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat showed flashes of strength but other sections of the grain market never got anywhere on the Board of Trade today.

Wheat's better than the market performance seemed based largely on hopes of export business next week, both Spain and Japan being expected in the market.

Wheat near noon was ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, December $1.98⅛, corn unchanged to ⅜ lower, December $1.50¾, oats unchanged to lower, December 77, soybeans ⅝-⅞ lower, November $2.75, and lard 12 cents lower to 8 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $14.20.

Corps Is Getting New Instruments

Circleville's snappy American Legion drum and bugle corps soon will be marching and playing with a whole new array of glittering instruments.

The Circleville corps, third-place unit among Legion drum and bugle corps in Ohio for the last two years, has sold its old instruments to the Lockbourne Air Force Base drum and bugle corps which appeared here during Pumpkin Show.

Last year, the unit purchased a new set of drums but was playing with second-hand instruments. New instruments are to be ordered this week, and in two or three weeks the unit should have its new instruments.

Sewer Work Due Within Few Weeks

City Service Director Dewey Speakman Thursday said work probably will begin before the end of November on the Watt St. and Fairview Ave. sewer projects.

His announcement came after City Council gave final approval to six ordinances which represent a green light for the two jobs. Both the improvements are to be financed by the assessment method.

Explaining the city is now preparing to ask for bids on the work, Speakman said:

"I figure it will probably be about 25 days before work is actualy started—within a month, anyway."

Commissioners Disagree With Health Director

he issued trace a steady gain through recent years in the amount of money being paid by the county for treatment of the tuberculosis cases. Yearly costs, he said, have been: $13,955 for 1951, $20,182 for 1952, and the estimated $23,095 for this year.

It was pointed out that if the amount of gain since 1952—about $3,000—is duplicated next year, even Dr. Blackburn's estimate of the levy's return would hardly be excessive. Tipton made it clear his yearly totals do not include the $1.25 paid by the state per day for each patient.

WHILE THE annual costs listed by the auditor trace a sharp upward trend, monthly costs reported from January to September inclusive for this year show a considerable up-and-down variance. Dr. Blackburn had pointed out in his Tuesday statement that the trend in monthly costs recently has been downward.

Commissioner Penn asserted the proposed levy, to insure adequate care of the patients who are in hospitals, "has no connection at all," with any possibility of a TB clinic for Pickaway County. Feasibility and need of such a clinic has been under discussion for some time between the commissioners, the tuberculosis association and Dr. Blackburn.

Heart of the current discussion apparently rests deeper than the question of whether the proposed levy has been set too high. Approval of the tax would "release" most or all of the funds now being spent by the county for the treatment of the patients. All or part of this "released" fund could be turned toward establishment of the TB clinic or used in other ways to provide a better program against the disease in Pickaway County.

One of the commissioners has been quoted as stating several phases of the county government operations are in urgent need of additional revenue. Both salaries and increased services to the public reportedly were mentioned.

All parties concerned apparently were in agreement on one important point: Care must be taken to provide sufficient county funds to provide adequate treatment for the tuberculosis patients who are in hospitals.

City Basement Jail Expected To Get Okay

The state building inspector's seal of approval appeared certain Thursday for Circleville's city jail, the basement bastile which has been criticized so often that many believe it "condemned."

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said he has received a letter from the division of factory and building inspection in the state department of industrial relations. The letter, signed by Robert A. Skipton, acting division chief, said records indicate Circleville's City Hall — including the jail—meets state standards.

However, Skipton added that "since there has been so much publicity in regard to this building," the division would send an inspector to double-check on it. The inspector, Wise said, arrived Thursday and his findings probably will be made known soon.

Shelter House To Be Scene Of 'Spook' Judging

Judging in Thursday night's annual Circleville Halloween parade will be held in Ted Lewis Park shelter house.

The annual Halloween parade, sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce and directed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 7 p. m. Thursday from Pickaway Courthouse.

Costumed "spooks" are to fall in behind the Circleville High School band for the march to the park, which will travel west on Franklin St. from the Courthouse to Scioto St.; north on Scioto to Main; east on Main to Court; and north on Court to the city park.

Previously, judging of the annual "spook" parade has taken place either in Memorial Hall or in the Armory. However, neither place was available this year, and the scene was shifted to the park.

Costumed paraders in Thursday evening's parade will vie for $100 in cash awards offered by the Chamber. A panel of three judges is to be on hand in the shelter house to select the winners.

1953 County Fair Loses Only $384

The 1953 Pickaway County Fair held in mid-September has been judged a successful venture in comparison with other local Fairs in the last few years.

Henry Reid Jr., secretary to the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, which is sponsoring group of the annual county exposition, reported the 1953 Fair lost money.

But this year's Fair only went into the red by the sum of $384.14, not by thousands of dollars as in previous years.

For instance, the 1952 Fair, a "good" fair in comparison with previous productions, resulted in a loss of $3,836.74. That loss was incurred even though the premium awards for that year had been pared by 25 percent in all but the junior fair department.

THIS YEAR'S Fair netted an income of $13,984.31, while its total expenses were $14,368.45, Reid reported.

Largest single item on the income side was $9,109.56 which was taken in for admissions, parking, grandstand and membership fees.

Top expense of this year's Fair was payment of premiums, which included a return to the previous high premiums of two years ago. A total of $6,280.11 was paid in premiums.

The special shows which were presented before the grandstand cost a total of $2,838.75, with the most expensive the opening day motorcycle races, which cost $867.75. Next highest of the special show expenses was the Lee Lott thrill show, which cost $594; and stock car races were third at a cost of $572.

Completing the list of expenditures was an outlay of $5,249.59, paid out of miscellaneous items such as tent rental, advertising, printing, insurance, judges, labor and sound service.

Route 3 Woman Injured In Crash

Mrs. Bernard Schorr, 44, of Circleville Route 3, was injured early Wednesday when her auto went out of control and struck a tree.

State patrolmen stationed in Lancaster said the crash happened on Route 188, about seven miles west of Lancaster. They said Mrs. Schorr lost control of her auto when she applied the brakes to avoid collision with a car ahead, which was making a left turn.

Mrs. Schorr has been admitted in Berger hospital for treatment. Patrolmen said she suffered an injured right leg and lacerations of her forehead and elbow.

ONE U. N. SOURCE said if truce violations were labeled formal aggressions the embargo would follow anyway.

The reported plan to increase the truce supervisors brought praise from the Arabs and sharp criticism from Israel.

Syria's Rafik Asha declared, "Anything that would lead to respect for the true agreement would be welcome.'

Eban said such a program would be "bereft of statesmanship and wisdom." He declared the council was discussing the entire threat to peace in the Middle East and suggested it would do well to appeal to both sides to respect the 1949 armistice agreements.

He took issue with the report of Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, chief U. N. truce supervisor, that "well-trained Israeli" soldiers were involved in the Kibya attack.

The Israeli delegate contended that the attack was made by "civilians" although official reports said the village was first brought under artillery siege before armed men rushed into the area. About 60 persons were killed and the village leveled.

Eban had no comment on the announcement that U. S. aid to Israel is being resumed as a result of the latter's agreement to halt work on a Jordan River project strenuously opposed by Syria. But he labeled "frivolous" the U. S. pinpointing of the Syrian complaint as the reason for suspending aid in the first place.

Myron Seymour of Williamsport was fined $50 and costs for reckless operation on Route 316. He was arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Walter Kline of Glenmont was fined $20 and costs for operating an improperly muffled truck on Route 23. He was arrested by State Patrolman Bob Greene.

In addition, Leo Bussart of Amanda was fined $50 and costs before Mayor Amey's court for disturbing the peace. Bussart was arrested on an affidavit filed by Ethel Fortner.

Special Envoy Believes Reds Show Interest

in arranging for the peace conference, promised the Reds that if they would first agree on a time and place for the conference he then was "prepared in good faith to exchange views to the fullest extent possible" on composition of the conference.

ONE SOURCE stressed that Dean's offer to exchange views is "no abandonment" of the United Nations position that only the belligerents, and Russia, if the Reds want her, should attend the conference.

"It still stands," said the source, that Dean "does not have any authority on his own" to change the U. N. stand on composition of the conference.

The Communist delegate repeated demands that neutral nations attend the peace conference and declared, "This is the firm and unalterable stand of our side."

South Korea's foreign minister, meanwhile, told a reporter he is optimistic over the chances for agreement in the preliminary talks and said his government will make a sincere effort to help the peace conference reach an agreement.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said South Korea still reserves the right to take independent action after Jan. 28—180 days after the Korean armistice was signed—unless a treaty is completed.

City Man Hurt In Auto Mishap

A Circleville man was injured at about 1:30 p. m. Thursday when he was struck by an auto while walking across the intersection of Court and Franklin Sts.

Police Sergeant George Green said "Jack" Thompson, about 70, of 443 S. Court St., apparently walked into the path of an auto which had been going east on Franklin St. and was turning south on Court St.

Green said the auto was operated by C. P. Heiskell of 711 N. Court St., who was unaware for a few moments that his auto had struck the man, the car dragging Thompson along.

Thompson was rushed into Berger hospital, where he was treated for lacerations and abrasions.

Corps Is Getting New Instruments

Circleville's snappy American Legion drum and bugle corps soon will be marching and playing with a whole new array of glittering instruments.

The Circleville corps, third-place unit among Legion drum and bugle corps in Ohio for the last two years, has sold its old instruments to the Lockbourne Air Force Base drum and bugle corps which appeared here during Pumpkin Show.

Last year, the unit purchased a new set of drums but was playing with second-hand instruments. New instruments are to be ordered this week, and in two or three weeks the unit should have its new instruments.

Sewer Work Due Within Few Weeks

City Service Director Dewey Speakman Thursday said work probably will begin before the end of November on the Watt St. and Fairview Ave. sewer projects.

His announcement came after City Council gave final approval to six ordinances which represent a green light for the two jobs. Both the improvements are to be financed by the assessment method.

Explaining the city is now preparing to ask for bids on the work, Speakman said:

"I figure it will probably be about 25 days before work is actualy started—within a month, anyway."

he issued trace a steady gain through recent years in the amount of money being paid by the county for treatment of the tuberculosis cases. Yearly costs, he said, have been: $13,955 for 1951, $20,182 for 1952, and the estimated $23,095 for this year.

It was pointed out that if the amount of gain since 1952—about $3,000—is duplicated next year, even Dr. Blackburn's estimate of the levy's return would hardly be excessive. Tipton made it clear his yearly totals do not include the $1.25 paid by the state per day for each patient.

WHILE THE annual costs listed by the auditor trace a sharp upward trend, monthly costs reported from January to September inclusive for this year show a considerable up-and-down variance. Dr. Blackburn had pointed out in his Tuesday statement that the trend in monthly costs recently has been downward.

Commissioner Penn asserted the proposed levy, to insure adequate care of the patients who are in hospitals, "has no connection at all," with any possibility of a TB clinic for Pickaway County. Feasibility and need of such a clinic has been under discussion for some time between the commissioners, the tuberculosis association and Dr. Blackburn.

Heart of the current discussion apparently rests deeper than the question of whether the proposed levy has been set too high. Approval of the tax would "release" most or all of the funds now being spent by the county for the treatment of the patients. All or part of this "released" fund could be turned toward establishment of the TB clinic or used in other ways to provide a better program against the disease in Pickaway County.

One of the commissioners has been quoted as stating several phases of the county government operations are in urgent need of additional revenue. Both salaries and increased services to the public reportedly were mentioned.

All parties concerned apparently were in agreement on one important point: Care must be taken to provide sufficient county funds to provide adequate treatment for the tuberculosis patients who are in hospitals.

City Basement Jail Expected To Get Okay

The state building inspector's seal of approval appeared certain Thursday for Circleville's city jail, the basement bastile which has been criticized so often that many believe it "condemned."

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said he has received a letter from the division of factory and building inspection in the state department of industrial relations. The letter, signed by Robert A. Skipton, acting division chief, said records indicate Circleville's City Hall — including the jail—meets state standards.

However, Skipton added that "since there has been so much publicity in regard to this building," the division would send an inspector to double-check on it. The inspector, Wise said, arrived Thursday and his findings probably will be made known soon.

Wise said comments by the inspector seemed to support the impression given by the advance letter—that the building will get full approval from the division. "He did say it's an old building," Wise added, "but aside from that didn't seem to find much wrong with it."

Status of the city jail has come in for special attention as Circleville prepares for its first municipal court setup, due to start Jan. 1.

Officials said prisoners will be held in the jail until their cases are heard. Any held after that time can be turned over to Pickaway County jail under a recently-signed contract.

Shelter House To Be Scene Of 'Spook' Judging

Judging in Thursday night's annual Circleville Halloween parade will be held in Ted Lewis Park shelter house.

The annual Halloween parade, sponsored by the Circleville Chamber of Commerce and directed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 7 p. m. Thursday from Pickaway Courthouse.

Costumed "spooks" are to fall in behind the Circleville High School band for the march to the park, which will travel west on Franklin St. from the Courthouse to Scioto St.; north on Scioto to Main; east on Main to Court; and north on Court to the city park.

Previously, judging of the annual "spook" parade has taken place either in Memorial Hall or in the Armory. However, neither place was available this year, and the scene was shifted to the park.

Costumed paraders in Thursday evening's parade will vie for $100 in cash awards offered by the Chamber. A panel of three judges is to be on hand in the shelter house to select the winners.

1953 County Fair Loses Only $384

The 1953 Pickaway County Fair held in mid-September has been judged a successful venture in comparison with other local Fairs in the last few years.

Henry Reid Jr., secretary to the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, which is sponsoring group of the annual county exposition, reported the 1953 Fair lost money.

But this year's Fair only went into the red by the sum of $384.14, not by thousands of dollars as in previous years.

For instance, the 1952 Fair, a "good" fair in comparison with previous productions, resulted in a loss of $3,836.74. That loss was incurred even though the premium awards for that year had been pared by 25 percent in all but the junior fair department.

THIS YEAR'S Fair netted an income of $13,984.31, while its total expenses were $14,368.45, Reid reported.

Largest single item on the income side was $9,109.56 which was taken in for admissions, parking, grandstand and membership fees.

Top expense of this year's Fair was payment of premiums, which included a return to the previous high premiums of two years ago. A total of $6,280.11 was paid in premiums.

The special shows which were presented before the grandstand cost a total of $2,838.75, with the most expensive the opening day motorcycle races, which cost $867.75. Next highest of the special show expenses was the Lee Lott thrill show, which cost $594; and stock car races were third at a cost of $572.

Completing the list of expenditures was an outlay of $5,249.59, paid out of miscellaneous items such as tent rental, advertising, printing, insurance, judges, labor and sound service.

Big Problem In The World Today Is There's Nobody You Can Trust

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U. S. A. (AP)—The visitor could hear the sound of loud voices as he rang the bell at the home of Wilbur and Trellis Mae Peeble.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you," he murmured as the door opened.

"Oh, no my wife and I were just working on a crossword puzzle," said Wilbur.

"Don't you use pencils?" asked the visitor, noticing both Peebles were empty-handed.

"Oh, it isn't a newspaper crossword puzzle," said Wilbur. "It's the family kind: you know, the husband can never find a space to fit in a word."

"Ummm," murmured the visitor tactfully, not wishing to be drawn into the situation. "May I introduce myself I'm Ronald Q. Querie, field representative of the Elmer J. Pacer Public Opinion Poll Co.

"I have been told you are the most average couple in America, and I'd like to get your opinion on some of the more important questions that face us all."

"Mister, you're just 12 months too late," said Trellis Mae.

"Why," asked the surprised visitor.

"Because a year ago Wilbur knew all the answers," said Trellis Mae, "and now he isn't sure of anything, including Ike's golf score."

"Well, well," said Mr. Querie.

"What do you think the U. S. should do to solve its economic and international problems?

"That's easy," replied Wilbur.

"In a word, well, we should lower prices, cut taxes, balance the budget, help ourselves by helping other nations, build a real defense at home and . . . and . . .'

"And put up bigger and better houses for the blue birds,' broke in Trellis Mae, "or, in a shorter word—nonsense!'

"My wife studied economics in high school, and it affected her mind,' apologized Wilbur stiffly.

"What do you think of the cattlemen's march on Washington?" inquired Mr. Querie.

"It's the wrong approach," observed Wilbur. "If you want to get anything from a politician you got to get him to come to you. You can't go to him. That breaks the rules."

"It's the high price of steak I'm interested in," put in Trellis Mae.

"Do you blame that on the cattlemen?" asked Mr. Querie.

"No, no, said Trellis Mae. "I've narrowed it down. The cattlemen and the packers say it aint their fault. My butcher says it ain't his fault. I know it ain't mine. Who does that leave? The cattle themselves. They must be responsible—the sneaky things, although I dont know how. Maybe its just their dumb animal pride.'

"Umm, umm," said Mr. Querie, confused. "What do you think would most benefit the average American worker today?"

"Well, either to get a raise in pay or have some real pull-like knowing somebody that can get you on a radio or TV give-away program,' said Wilbur.

"He's a dreamer," broke in Trellis Mae again. "The first thing we need is smoke control."

"I don't believe I quite get you," said Mr. Querie.

"Well, the average American in a white collar worker," said Trellis Mae, "and if the cities would enforce smoke contro laws he could wear the same shirt to work two days in a row."

The eyes of Mr. Querie began to glaze, but he made one more stab.

"We like to find what problem is really uppermost in the average couple's mind at the time we poll them," he said. "What were you arguing . . . er . . .that is, talking about when I rang your bell—personal finances, the Russian threat, the Communist menace?"

"Well, as a matter of fact," said Wilbur, "we were discussing why my wife's brother got tight at our wedding reception 15 years ago last Tuesday. My wife still says I spiked the punch, and of course I didn't do any such thing."

"You did too!" exclaimed Trellis Mae. "And now, at last, I'll tell you how I know. The minister saw you do it, and he told me. I just wanted to see how many years you could go on telling me a lie."

"And I paid that minister $10 for 15 minutes work," said Wilbur, turning to Mr. Querie. "You know what's the big problem in the world today? There's nobody a man can really trust. Put that in your poll."

"And nobody a wife can trust either," wound up Trellis Mae. "Put that in your poll twice.'

Big Problem In The World Today Is There's Nobody You Can Trust

By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U. S. A. (AP)—The visitor could hear the sound of loud voices as he rang the bell at the home of Wilbur and Trellis Mae Peebie.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you," he murmured as the door opened.

"Oh, no my wife and I were just working on a crossword puzzle," said Wilbur.

"Don't you use pencils?" asked the visitor, noticing both Peebles were empty-handed.

"Oh, it isn't a newspaper crossword puzzle," said Wilbur. "It's the family kind: you know, the husband can never find a space to fit in a word."

"Ummm," murmured the visitor tactfully, not wishing to be drawn into the situation. "May I introduce myself I'm Ronald Q. Querie, field representative of the Elmer J. Pacer Public Opinion Poll Co.

"I have been told you are the most average couple in America, and I'd like to get your opinion on some of the more important questions that face us all."

"Mister, you're just 12 months too late," said Trellis Mae.

"Why," asked the surprised visitor.

"Because a year ago Wilbur knew all the answers," said Trellis Mae, "and now he isn't sure of anything, including Ike's golf score."

"Please excuse my wife," said Wilbur apologetically. "She still keeps a picture of Adlai Stevenson on her dressing table."

"Well, well," said Mr. Querie. "What do you think the U. S. should do to solve its economic and international problems?

"That's easy," replied Wilbur.

"In a word, well, we should lower prices, cut taxes, balance the budget, help ourselves by helping other nations, build a real defense at home and . . . and . . .'

"And put up bigger and better houses for the blue birds,' broke in Trellis Mae, "or, in a shorter word—nonsense!'

"My wife studied economics in high school, and it affected her mind,' apologized Wilbur stiffly.

"What do you think of the cattlemen's march on Washington?" inquired Mr. Querie.

"It's the wrong approach," observed Wilbur. "If you want to get anything from a politician you got to get him to come to you. You can't go to him. That breaks the rules."

"It's the high price of steak I'm interested in," put in Trellis Mae.

"Do you blame that on the cattlemen?" asked Mr. Querie.

"No, no, said Trellis Mae. "I've narrowed it down. The cattlemen and the packers say it aint their fault. My butcher says it ain't his fault. I know it ain't mine. Who does that leave? The cattle themselves. They must be responsible—the sneaky things, although I dont know how. Maybe its just their dumb animal pride.'

"Umm, umm," said Mr. Querie, confused. "What do you think would most benefit the average American worker today?"

"Well, either to get a raise in pay or have some real pull-like knowing somebody that can get you on a radio or TV give-away program,' said Wilbur.

"He's a dreamer," broke in Trellis Mae again. "The first thing we need is smoke control."

"I don't believe I quite get you," said Mr. Querie.

"Well, the average American in a white collar worker," said Trellis Mae, "and if the cities would enforce smoke contro laws he could wear the same shirt to work two days in a row."

The eyes of Mr. Querie began to glaze, but he made one more stab.

"We like to find what problem is really uppermost in the average couple's mind at the time we poll them," he said. "What were you arguing . . . er . . .that is, talking about when I rang your bell—personal finances, the Russian threat, the Communist menace?"

"Well, as a matter of fact," said Wilbur, "we were discussing why my wife's brother got tight at our wedding reception 15 years ago last Tuesday. My wife still says I spiked the punch, and of course I didn't do any such thing."

"You did too!" exclaimed Trellis Mae. "And now, at last, I'll tell you how I know. The minister saw you do it, and he told me. I just wanted to see how many years you could go on telling me a lie."

"And I paid that minister $10 for 15 minutes work," said Wilbur, turning to Mr. Querie. "You know what's the big problem in the world today? There's nobody a man can really trust. Put that in your poll."

"And nobody a wife can trust either," wound up Trellis Mae. "Put that in your poll twice.'

Heeter Favors Annexation Plan If City Also Improves Facilities

Jack Heeter, Republican candidate in next Tuesday's election for the Fourth Ward councilman job now held by Boyd Horn, Democrat, has declared himself in favor of the city's annexation program—if improvement of sub-standard city areas is made a simultaneous project.

Horn has denounced the city's preparations to annex a large area north of the corporation, contending the effort first should be concentrated on giving adequate facilities "to those who are already paying taxes inside Circleville," Heeter said Wednesday both the expansion plan and improvement of city services should be made urgent projects.

"Any civic-minded person," Heeter declared, "should be in favor of expansion when it aims at a better Circleville. However, this effort should be financed as far as possible by the assessment method while the bulk of the city's available funds should be concentrated on needs of the present city taxpayers."

In projects launched under the assessment method, those affected help finance the work by paying according to their "benefits," or according to other measuring rules set for each case. Such a method, consequently, can be used on jobs inside or outside the corporation.

HEETER ALSO took up the oft-debated subject of city water for Lowery Lane. Council discussed it in last regular meeting, recalling that efforts to extend the city's water lines to Lowery Lane in the past allegedly have been blocked by refusal of property owners to cooperate. On this subject, Heeter said:

"I am familiar with the difficulties met in the past on this problem, but I feel sure now—since the picture recently has been clarified—that a satisfactory agreement all around can be reached if a new effort is made in that direction."

The Republican candidate said he is fully aware of the lean status of city finances and expressed belief the corporation should be getting more tax revenue from the state. He said he is especially interested in the report that the General Electric Co. would be favorable toward any move to expand the city eastward and bring the firm's lamp works into the corporation.

A high county official recently declared General Electric officials have said they have no objections to such a move by the city. Heeter emphasized he was not urging an eastward expansion at this time instead of the proposed annexation to the north.

He said steps should be taken to see if land east of the city might also be annexed as part of the current planning.

Expansion planners some time ago, in reference to this question, said stubborn problems in sewer construction would be involved in any eastward annexation effort.

Kinsey Report Demoralizing GIs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" was more demoralizing to American troops in Korea than Red propaganda, says John Morley, a lecturer who recently returned from the Orient.

The Kinsey Report, Morley said at a civic meeting yesterday, told 200,000 Americans overseas that "one out of every four American wives has been unfaithful."

Heeter Favors Annexation Plan If City Also Improves Facilities

Jack Heeter, Republican candidate in next Tuesday's election for the Fourth Ward councilman job now held by Boyd Horn, Democrat, has declared himself in favor of the city's annexation program—if improvement of sub-standard city areas is made a simultaneous project.

Horn has denounced the city's preparations to annex a large area north of the corporation, contending the effort first should be concentrated on giving adequate facilities "to those who are already paying taxes inside Circleville," Heeter said Wednesday both the expansion plan and improvement of city services should be made urgent projects.

"Any civic-minded person," Heeter declared, "should be in favor of expansion when it aims at a better Circleville. However, this effort should be financed as far as possible by the assessment method while the bulk of the city's available funds should be concentrated on needs of the present city taxpayers."

In projects launched under the assessment method, those affected help finance the work by paying according to their "benefits," or according to other measuring rules set for each case. Such a method, consequently, can be used on jobs inside or outside the corporation.

HEETER ALSO took up the oft-debated subject of city water for Lowery Lane. Council discussed it in last regular meeting, recalling that efforts to extend the city's water lines to Lowery Lane in the past allegedly have been blocked by refusal of property owners to cooperate. On this subject, Heeter said:

"I am familiar with the difficulties met in the past on this problem, but I feel sure now—since the picture recently has been clarified—that a satisfactory agreement all around can be reached if a new effort is made in that direction."

The Republican candidate said he is fully aware of the lean status of city finances and expressed belief the corporation should be getting more tax revenue from the state. He said he is especially interested in the report that the General Electric Co. would be favorable toward any move to expand the city eastward and bring the firm's lamp works into the corporation.

A high county official recently declared General Electric officials have said they have no objections to such a move by the city. Heeter emphasized he was not urging an eastward expansion at this time instead of the proposed annexation to the north.

He said steps should be taken to see if land east of the city might also be annexed as part of the current planning.

Expansion planners some time ago, in reference to this question, said stubborn problems in sewer construction would be involved in any eastward annexation effort.

Kinsey Report Demoralizing Gls

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" was more demoralizing to American troops in Korea than Red propaganda, says John Morley, a lecturer who recently returned from the Orient.

The Kinsey Report, Morley said at a civic meeting yesterday, told 200,000 Americans overseas that "one out of every four American wives has been unfaithful."

Hardy Guessers Take Look At 1954 Business

First Of Predictions Starting To Roll In; Opinions Vary Widely

NEW YORK (AP) — Some hardy guessers are out today with what they see ahead for business—theirs or everybody's—in 1954.

They offer facts and figures about prospects—not just the general anxiety that is usually expressed privately or the public rosy assurances that somehow fail to reassure many persons.

In the coming weeks many more in the business world will go out on the limb in year-end reviews and peeks into the future. Save their predictions and see how they stack up this time next year. Here are the early ones:

For the metalworking industries, Tom Campbell, editor of a weekly, The Iron Age, predicts:

"Volume may be off from 10 to 15 per cent from 1953 highs during the first six months of 1954 but profits won't be off that much. Some time in the latter part of 1954 competition and new products will give a boost to the economy."

Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of United States Steel, thinks his company will operate at around 95 per cent of capacity in the opening months of 1954. That's just about what the industry as a whole is doing right now.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., on the other hand, is cutting output by 9 per cent because of "market conditions."

William White, president of New York Central Railroad, thinks his company's revenues will fall 6 per cent next year, with earnings also off, the extent depending upon what labor gest in the way of higher wages.

"A general business decline of between 10 and 15 per cent," predicts John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester, adding: "I'm not alarmed at all about business. But there comes a time when we have to go down a little, then level off."

Some blowing down in business during 1954 is foreseen by N. C. McGowen, president of United Gas Corp. He says: "We aren't going into any tailspin, but to put it plainly, the honeymoon is over."

Work Bill Vetoed

CONNEAUT (AP) — Mayor John Walker, saying funds were not available for additional men, vetoed an ordinance Tuesday which would have cut the 72-hour work week for firemen.

BENSON'S SHUFFLE

SECRETARY BENSON'S reorganization of the Department of Agriclture reduces 20 existing units into five main divisions and abolishes some field agency titles that have become household words over the years.

Slated to go by the board are the Production and Marketing Administration, one of whose principal tasks has been administering price supports and crop controls, and the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, best known perhaps for its issuance of crop reports and livestock estimates.

Seven regional soil conservation agencies are also being closed down, with their personnel slated to strengthen state soil agencies and the Washington office.

To pick up functions of the disbanded PMA and BAE, Benson has created respectively a commodity stabilization service, under which the Commodity Credit Corporation will now operate, and an agriculture marketing service, to coordinate the department's diverse marketing and market research activities.

The other three main divisions, more or lss undisturbed by the reshuffle, are federal-state relations, agriculture credit and administrative.

Secretary Benson expects the reorganization to increase operating efficiency and economy, and to give local farmer committees more direct access to top department officials.

PRISONERS SCORN REDS

REDS IN KOREA ARE having a hard time inducing Chinese prisoners of war to return home and live under Communism. With India in the role of a neutral supervising nation the prisoners are being "interviewed" concerning their refusal to return home.

To date, 98 per cent have repudiated Communism in no uncertain terms, often proclaiming their enmity in screaming invectives. Some are so beside themselves with rage they attempt to attack their questioners with bare hands. The few who are "converted" to Communism seem to be actuated mainly by fear.

One of the factors delaying truce negotiations at the start was disposition of the thousands of prisoners in Allied camps, who declared they would not return to their home lands either because they detested Communism or because they feared liquidation. Later it was agreed to permit them to make their own choice, under the supervision of "neutral" nations—including India, Czechoslovakia and Poland, with the results as noted.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The effort of Communist unions to hold their control of segments of labor is encountering opposition in the rank and file of the workers. Among the many fights on this question is that in the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

The "Miner's Voice," a publication issued by miners in Butte, Montana, has been sent to me and right on the front page is the heading "Fight's on for Free Unionism."

That is an accurate and correct phrase, "Free Unionism," for under Communism there is no free unionism, the workers are slaves in the hands of an elite controlled by a political party.

The most objectionable Communist-controlled union in this country is the UE, the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. This Commmunist-dominated union still holds contracts with such important companies as General Electric, contracts authorized by the National Labor Relations Board. Expelled from the CIO, these Communist unions are recognized by business and government, but the workers are rebelling against them.

The Butte Miner's Union in their 1953 convention, raised this issue. Let me quote:

"Today, in 1953, the IU of MM and SW is expelled from the main stream of organized labor, expelled on charges of Communist influence and isolated from the bulk of organized labor. . .Membership has dropped to nearly half of what it was in 1946. At the recent convention in St. Louis there were only 212 delegates representing . . .82 local unions. While the reports at the convention did not disclose the sorry record of organizational defeats in which the International lost dozens of bargaining certification elections they did show that the IL of MM and SW was raided in 50 properties this year."

In a word, the workers are leaving another Communist-controlled and dominated union. Not business, not the Government fights these enemies of our country, but the workers leave them, joining other unions or taking their locals elsewhere.

The Butte Union asks:

"Why did Mine-Mill lose nearly half of its former membership? Why did several dozens of local unions leave Mine-Mill from 1947 to 1950? Why did Mine-Mill then have to fight off raids by CIO and AF of L Unions almost in every section of its jurisdiction in the United States and Canada? Why all the dissention (sic), fights, secession, expulsions, controversies, investigations, costly legal battles, raids, election losses, resignation of opposition officers, undermining and firing of persons who differ in political opinion and other disorders which took place in Mine-Mill during the past few years?"

And they give the answer:

CHAPTER TWENTY

THREE months ago this very day, impelled by Phil Stanley's electrifying dare, and her ambition to test her own abilities beyond taking dictation and orders from Humphrey Charles, she had plunged into this new life. Whereever would it lead? She didn't know. She only knew that now she had to go ahead.

Phil's money had made the physical accomplishment of the shop easy. The cost of furnishings, stock, the rent of the shop, in just the right building, on just the right street, had made Nancy gasp, and costs were laughed off by Phil Stanley.

Phil had laughed at her, chided her, coaxed her and challenged her to go on. She remembered all her grand resolves to make her own destiny, to slay a dragon with the many heads of fear, landlords, typewriters, Humphrey Charleses, snobbery.

Phil had told her that she had the "stuff," that nearly everybody was bluffing anyway, that life was a game and she might as well get in on it.

He had said:

"What if the thing does fail!"

And she had said:

"You'd be out a lot of money."

"Forget the money, that should be my worry, and I'm not worrying at all."

Phil had gotten a woman to come from the east side to act as secretary and manager. He said she had a world of experience in the operation of such shops as Nancy Kelly, Inc. The woman, a Mrs. Clare Eustis, had been invaluable in the whole affair. Under her efficient organization and Phil's goading, Nancy had been swept along so fast that now, at midnight, on the day before the shop's opening, she still lingered alone in the shop to collect her thoughts and calm herself.

Her venture had caused a family furore at first. With every resource of tact and argument she had laid her plans before Mother Kelly, her father and Tom, and she had won them to her cause.

Mother Kelly had a fine new chair to rock now. The new chair was only one of the improvements in the Kelly sitting room. There was no more cracked lamp shade, nor was there a shabby rug on the floor.

Nancy closed her eyes. She could see the new Kelly living room furnishings, all accomplished with the pay that Phil Stanley had insisted was coming to her as part of the organization which was to carry her name and which tomorrow was to burst upon the world, the last detail finished.

She had been carried along with this—to this very moment—like a piece of driftwood in a rushing stream. She, Nancy Kelly, in business for herself, now seated in her shop at midnight and pondering—what next?

Dave Armstrong had been more difficult to win over to acceptance of the thing she was going into than were her father and mother. He had told her she was playing with fire, accepting Phil Stanley's backing.

That had been weeks ago and she hadn't seen Dave since. She had heard through Tom that Dave was no longer working for the Stanley Construction company. There had been a disagreement of some kind with a foreman. Tom said it had worked out for the best, that a kick could be a boost because Dave had immediately got a job in the drafting room of a competitive company.

At last Dave was going to have opportunity to apply some of the things he had worked so hard to master through the grind of night study and correspondence courses.

Tom said the company Dave was now working for was the one that for months had been in litigation against the Stanley Construction company. Mention of the firm's name brought back to Nancy all the sickening feeling she had experienced the day she had been called to the district attorney's office for questioning.

Mystery of the person who somehow had gotten material valuable to the side fighting the Stanley company still was unsolved. Nancy for weeks had been tormented with suspicion that Sam Sykes' quick fingers had stolen a carbon copy of information damaging to the company from before her very eyes. Nothing had come of her suspicions so far.

Sam and Moira still were following the races. The last time they were heard from they were on their way to Florida from New Orleans.

Nancy sat down on her chintz couch, stared straight ahead. She had thought and thought and her tired brain couldn't accept another thing. Things were fading—fading. Everything was so deliciously quiet now. She closed her eyes. She mustn't go to sleep. She must call a taxi now and go home.

This same night, after the theater, Linda had invited Phil into her apartment on the pretext of showing him some portraits she had taken. She had settled herself on the chaise lounge, the photographs in her lap, and patted the pillow at her side.

"Sit here, Phil, the light is better."

She had used the most seductive perfume purchaseable and Phil, that evening, had not even mentioned it.

"Phil."

There was a petulant purr in her voice.

"Yes, Linda."

"You seem so preoccupied, detached, you're not yourself tonight at all, Phil."

She held out her hand.

"Let me feel your pulse."

"My pulse!"

"Yes, goose, your pulse. I'll bet you have low blood pressure, or something. You've been utterly too quiet tonight. You're not at all like yourself."

He held out his hand.

Linda pressed a crimson nailed finger on his wrist, pretended to count as she looked at her tiny wrist watch.

"Not a thing wrong with your pulse, Phil."

Her satiny white shoulder was touching the sleeve of his dinner coat now. Then she felt his lips on hers, a light kiss. It was a kiss without passion. It was not a kiss that said, "Linda, I want you to marry me."

She jerked viciously away from him and a little stream of sequins from her gown went trickling to the floor.

Linda Van Vliet's determination to ruin Nancy Kelly in the eyes of Phil Stanley cost her many sleepless hours during the next few nights.

Linda's cleverness, her passion to toy with danger, to meddle with lives and to make fools of men, had increased with success. She had made some close escapes.

Competition with a girl like Nancy Kelly, a little nobody whose head of coppery hair happened to capture the attention of the too rich Phil Stanley, should be so slight as to be ridiculous. Of course it was going to be, Linda concluded.

She leaned closer to her dressing table mirror. She ran a fastidious forefinger over the curve of her eyebrows and gave a final pat to her hair.

She was quite satisfied with her appearance. Her new Hattie Carnegie hat, her smart frock, gave her a feeling of authority over any situation she might run into that day. Neither the hat nor the frock had been paid for. The drawer in the Chippendale desk was overflowing with unpaid bills. She wasn't worried about getting money to pay bills.

It was so easy to get money from over-rich young males when they were silly with too much champagne or drunk with excitement at the roulette wheels.

She had seen Phil Stanley's pockets overflowing with crumpled bills, winnings at a table in what appeared to be a fine old country home, and wasn't.

It was the gambling place of a coterie of wealthy people, unknown and away from the hoi polloi who did its gambling at ordinary password establishments in and around the city.

In her smooth, swift way, Linda had dipped into the pockets of Phil and others. When Tod Thornberry was in the crowd, Linda's takings were always easy. Tod always passed out so completely.

Today Linda was going to visit Nancy Kelly's shop. She would learn, if she could, what had become of Sam Sykes. Discovery that Sam was married to Nancy's sister had been a shock that was almost too much for the cool composure and acting abilities of Linda.

It was a closed incident now. It had resulted in another secret meeting between Sam and Linda, her demand that Sam tell her just how much of his past and her past he might have told Moira.

Sam had said that he told Moira nothing. Sam had repeated that he was doing his best to get away from his past. He had said that Moira might not be clever, as Linda was clever, but he said she was a good kid and he intended leading a new kind of life with her.

He had talked of Moira's belief in him, that she didn't know it, but she was helping him go straight.

Sam had repeated his desire to keep out of the path of Linda and said he wanted Linda to keep out of his.

Try, Stop Me

The proprietor of a swank London shoe store discovered an item in his stock that was distinctly inferior. "I am an honorable business man," he told his staff, "and believe we should put our customers on guard. Put these doubtful shoes in the window and mark them 'Fit for a Queen.' You jolly well know, a queen does not have to do much walking!"

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

HAVANA — An unbelievably brutal suppression of the most elementary liberties, including the right to a secret vote, a free press and speech, political opposition and even personal safety, exists throughout Central and South America under totalitarian and military governments which enjoy the aid and approval of the administration at Washington.

Only a Moscow-like censorship of the press prevents the American people from learning of this Iron Curtain, which hangs across the sub-continent from the Texas border to Patagonia. Neither the local newspapers nor foreign correspondents stationed in these countries dare to write or publish the facts about these ruthless and undemocratic regimes.

Where bold and critical newspapers are not closed outright, as Dictator Juan Peron of Argentina shut down La Prensa in Buenos Aires, the editors and reporters are terrorized, exiled or imprisoned. The governments retaliate against criticism or exposure by withholding newsprint, equipment or even money for salaries and operating expenses. Journalistic offenders are beaten up by official gangsters. As a result, most newspapers become official publicity organs, printing only what the current dictator okays.

PROTESTS — Periodical protests against these conditions are presented at annual conventions of the Inter-American Press Association, which was held in Mexico City two weeks ago, with John Knight, Detroit - Chicago-Miami publisher, as outgoing president. But their resolvings and denunciations produce no change or improvement.

Political freedom has also been crucified. Although these countries call themselves "republics" and are supposed to be Western Allies in the conflict with Russia, all democratic processes of government have vanished. Mexico City has become the haven of prominent political exiles, who have had to flee their homelands to escape imprisonment or execution. Their number is reliably estimated at 1,000. Others hide out in Washington, New York and Miami.

Among these distinguished refugees is Romulo Gallegos of Venezuela. He was elected president of that country, but he had to scram when the army rose against him. Another is Carlos Prios Socarras of Cuba. He was elected, but he was overthrown by Gen. Fulgencio Batista. Together with their cabinet members and political associates, they form so many governments in-exile.

TURMOIL — Their incessant plotting and abortive uprisings keep Central America, as well as this whole strategic Caribbean area, in constant turmoil. And anti-American interests, including Red business and political agents, are not neglecting this opportunity to foment continental unrest.

Their long-range objective is sabotage or destruction of the Panama Canal, as the Suez Canal is their target in the Middle East. Without our use of these vital waterways, as World War II demonstrated, the Kremlin figures that it would enjoy a major advantage over a hostile coalition. Barring this region's mineral and food resources from us is another Soviet aim.

WORSE — Although Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower spokesmen have frequently denounced Peron's tyranical tactics, they have uttered no condemnation of an even worse offender—Dictator Batista of Cuba. This key island, whose people were freed from Spanish subjugation with American blood and treasur, is governed as ruthlessly as Russia was under Stalin. There are no free elections, free press, free conversation, free unions or free enterprise. Batista remains in power only through military and police force and house-to-house espionage.

When American warships touch at Guantanamo Base or Havana, the crews are warned at official lectures not to mention the name of "Batista" while on shore leave. To suggest familiarity with or criticism of this dictator is as capital a crime as it was to breathe the names of Hitler, Stalin or Mussolini on the street corners of their countries, or as it is to gossip of Franco in Spain and Tito in Yugoslavia today.

PROMISE—Batista seized power through a barracks revolt in 1952—he was originally an army buck private—and forestalled a scheduled Presidential election in that year. He promptly suspended the 1940 Constitution written under F.D.R.'s auspices, dissolved Congress and began a rule by dictatorial decree. He has promised a free election for 1954, but nobody expects the pledge to be kept. If it is, an anti-Batista man will be elected in untrammeled voting.

Washington's tolerance and support of these totalitarian dictatorships make a mockery of our pledges and principles, as well as of the United Nations' Charter, in the opinion of well-informed, Latin-American observers. Even at the risk of antagonizing political upstarts like Peron and Batista, they believe that President Eisenhower should issue a stern diplomatic warning for a Latin-American housecleaning.

BENSON'S SHUFFLE

SECRETARY BENSON'S reorganization of the Department of Agriclture reduces 20 existing units into five main divisions and abolishes some field agency titles that have become household words over the years.

Slated to go by the board are the Production and Marketing Administration, one of whose principal tasks has been administering price supports and crop controls, and the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, best known perhaps for its issuance of crop reports and livestock estimates.

Seven regional soil conservation agencies are also being closed down, with their personnel slated to strengthen state soil agencies and the Washington office.

To pick up functions of the disbanded PMA and BAE, Benson has created respectively a commodity stabilization service, under which the Commodity Credit Corporation will now operate, and an agriculture marketing service, to coordinate the department's diverse marketing and market research activities.

The other three main divisions, more or lss undisturbed by the reshuffle, are federal-state relations, agriculture credit and administrative.

Secretary Benson expects the reorganization to increase operating efficiency and economy, and to give local farmer committees more direct access to top department officials.

PRISONERS SCORN REDS

REDS IN KOREA ARE having a hard time inducing Chinese prisoners of war to return home and live under Communism. With India in the role of a neutral supervising nation the prisoners are being "interviewed" concerning their refusal to return home.

To date, 98 per cent have repudiated Communism in no uncertain terms, often proclaiming their enmity in screaming invectives. Some are so beside themselves with rage they attempt to attack their questioners with bare hands. The few who are "converted" to Communism seem to be actuated mainly by fear.

One of the factors delaying truce negotiations at the start was disposition of the thousands of prisoners in Allied camps, who declared they would not return to their home lands either because they detested Communism or because they feared liquidation. Later it was agreed to permit them to make their own choice, under the supervision of "neutral" nations—including India, Czechoslovakia and Poland, with the results as noted.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The effort of Communist unions to hold their control of segments of labor is encountering opposition in the rank and file of the workers. Among the many fights on this question is that in the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

The "Miner's Voice," a publication issued by miners in Butte, Montana, has been sent to me and right on the front page is the heading "Fight's on for Free Unionism."

That is an accurate and correct phrase, "Free Unionism," for under Communism there is no free unionism, the workers are slaves in the hands of an elite controlled by a political party.

The most objectionable Communist-controlled union in this country is the UE, the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. This Commmunist-dominated union still holds contracts with such important companies as General Electric, contracts authorized by the National Labor Relations Board. Expelled from the CIO, these Communist unions are recognized by business and government, but the workers are rebelling against them.

The Butte Miner's Union in their 1953 convention, raised this issue. Let me quote:

"Today, in 1953, the IU of MM and SW is expelled from the main stream of organized labor, expelled on charges of Communist influence and isolated from the bulk of organized labor. . .Membership has dropped to nearly half of what it was in 1946. At the recent convention in St. Louis there were only 212 delegates representing . . .82 local unions. While the reports at the convention did not disclose the sorry record of organizational defeats in which the International lost dozens of bargaining certification elections they did show that the IL of MM and SW was raided in 50 properties this year."

In a word, the workers are leaving another Communist-controlled and dominated union. Not business, not the Government fights these enemies of our country, but the workers leave them, joining other unions or taking their locals elsewhere.

The Butte Union asks:

"Why did Mine-Mill lose nearly half of its former membership? Why did several dozens of local unions leave Mine-Mill from 1947 to 1950? Why did Mine-Mill then have to fight off raids by CIO and AF of L Unions almost in every section of its jurisdiction in the United States and Canada? Why all the dissention (sic), fights, secession, expulsions, controversies, investigations, costly legal battles, raids, election losses, resignation of opposition officers, undermining and firing of persons who differ in political opinion and other disorders which took place in Mine-Mill during the past few years?"

And they give the answer:

CHAPTER TWENTY

THREE months ago this very day, impelled by Phil Stanley's electrifying dare, and her ambition to test her own abilities beyond taking dictation and orders from Humphrey Charles, she had plunged into this new life. Wherever would it lead? She didn't know. She only knew that now she had to go ahead.

Phil's money had made the physical accomplishment of the shop easy. The cost of furnishings, stock, the rent of the shop, in just the right building, on just the right street, had made Nancy gasp, and costs were laughed off by Phil Stanley.

Phil had laughed at her, chided her, coaxed her and challenged her to go on. She remembered all her grand resolves to make her own destiny, to slay a dragon with the many heads of fear, landlords, typewriters, Humphrey Charleses, snobbery.

Phil had told her that she had the "stuff," that nearly everybody was bluffing anyway, that life was a game and she might as well get in on it.

He had said:

"What if the thing does fail!"

And she had said:

"You'd be out a lot of money."

"Forget the money, that should be my worry, and I'm not worrying at all."

Phil had gotten a woman to come from the east side to act as secretary and manager. He said she had a world of experience in the operation of such shops as Nancy Kelly, Inc. The woman, a Mrs. Clare Eustis, had been invaluable in the whole affair. Under her efficient organization and Phil's goading, Nancy had been swept along so fast that now, at midnight, on the day before the shop's opening, she still lingered alone in the shop to collect her thoughts and calm herself.

Her venture had caused a family furore at first. With every resource of tact and argument she had laid her plans before Mother Kelly, her father and Tom, and she had won them to her cause.

Mother Kelly had a fine new chair to rock now. The new chair was only one of the improvements in the Kelly sitting room. There was no more cracked lamp shade, nor was there a shabby rug on the floor.

Nancy closed her eyes. She could see the new Kelly living room furnishings, all accomplished with the pay that Phil Stanley had insisted was coming to her as part of the organization which was to carry her name and which tomorrow was to burst upon the world, the last detail finished.

She had been carried along with this—to this very moment—like a piece of driftwood in a rushing stream. She, Nancy Kelly, in business for herself, now seated in her shop at midnight and pondering—what next?

Dave Armstrong had been more difficult to win over to acceptance of the thing she was going into than were her father and mother. He had told her she was playing with fire, accepting Phil Stanley's backing.

That had been weeks ago and she hadn't seen Dave since. She had heard through Tom that Dave was no longer working for the Stanley Construction company. There had been a disagreement of some kind with a foreman. Tom said it had worked out for the best, that a kick could be a boost because Dave had immediately got a job in the drafting room of a competitive company.

At last Dave was going to have opportunity to apply some of the things he had worked so hard to master through the grind of night study and correspondence courses.

Tom said the company Dave was now working for was the one that for months had been in litigation against the Stanley Construction company. Mention of the firm's name brought back to Nancy all the sickening feeling she had experienced the day she had been called to the district attorney's office for questioning.

Mystery of the person who somehow had gotten material valuable to the side fighting the Stanley company still was unsolved. Nancy for weeks had been tormented with suspicion that Sam Sykes' quick fingers had stolen a carbon copy of information damaging to the company from before her very eyes. Nothing had come of her suspicions so far.

Sam and Moira still were following the races. The last time they were heard from they were on their way to Florida from New Orleans.

Nancy sat down on her chintz couch, stared straight ahead. She had thought and thought and her tired brain couldn't accept another thing. Things were fading—fading. Everything was so deliciously quiet now. She closed her eyes. She mustn't go to sleep. She must call a taxi now and go home.

This same night, after the theater, Linda had invited Phil into her apartment on the pretext of showing him some portraits she had taken. She had settled herself on the chaise lounge, the photographs in her lap, and patted the pillow at her side.

"Sit here, Phil, the light is better."

She had used the most seductive perfume purchaseable and Phil, that evening, had not even mentioned it.

"Phil."

There was a petulant purr in her voice.

"Yes, Linda."

"You seem so preoccupied, detached, you're not yourself tonight at all, Phil."

She held out her hand.

"Let me feel your pulse."

"My pulse!"

"Yes, goose, your pulse. I'll bet you have low blood pressure, or something. You've been utterly too quiet tonight. You're not at all like yourself."

He held out his hand.

Linda pressed a crimson nailed finger on his wrist, pretended to count as she looked at her tiny wrist watch.

"Not a thing wrong with your pulse, Phil."

Her satiny white shoulder was touching the sleeve of his dinner coat now. Then she felt his lips on hers, a light kiss. It was a kiss without passion. It was not a kiss that said, "Linda, I want you to marry me."

She jerked viciously away from him and a little stream of sequins from her gown went trickling to the floor.

Linda Van Vliet's determination to ruin Nancy Kelly in the eyes of Phil Stanley cost her many sleepless hours during the next few nights.

Linda's cleverness, her passion to toy with danger, to meddle with lives and to make fools of men, had increased with success. She had made some close escapes.

Competition with a girl like Nancy Kelly, a little nobody whose head of coppery hair happened to capture the attention of the too rich Phil Stanley, should be so slight as to be ridiculous. Of course it was going to be, Linda concluded.

She leaned closer to her dressing table mirror. She ran a fastidious forefinger over the curve of her eyebrows and gave a final pat to her hair.

She was quite satisfied with her appearance. Her new Hattie Carnegie hat, her smart frock, gave her a feeling of authority over any situation she might run into that day. Neither the hat nor the frock had been paid for. The drawer in the Chippendale desk was overflowing with unpaid bills. She wasn't worried about getting money to pay bills.

It was so easy to get money from over-rich young males when they were silly with too much champagne or drunk with excitement at the roulette wheels.

She had seen Phil Stanley's pockets overflowing with crumpled bills, winnings at a table in what appeared to be a fine old country home, and wasn't.

It was the gambling place of a coterie of wealthy people, unknown and away from the hoi polloi who did its gambling at ordinary password establishments in and around the city.

In her smooth, swift way, Linda had dipped into the pockets of Phil and others. When Tod Thornberry was in the crowd, Linda's takings were always easy. Tod always passed out so completely.

Today Linda was going to visit Nancy Kelly's shop. She would learn, if she could, what had become of Sam Sykes. Discovery that Sam was married to Nancy's sister had been a shock that was almost too much for the cool composure and acting abilities of Linda.

It was a closed incident now. It had resulted in another secret meeting between Sam and Linda, her demand that Sam tell her just how much of his past and her past he might have told Moira.

Ashville School Given Valuable Reference Books

The Ashville Elementary School recently accepted a gift of some 75 valuable reference books, donated by Mrs. Cynthia Roof Hicks in memory of the late Joseph S. Roof. Most of the books refer to the history and geography of Ohio and include the first thirty-eight volumes of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society Publications from the year 1900 to 1929. These volumes give a complete and interesting story of Ohio's history and deal in detail with the archaeological history of Ohio. Mr. Roof was a member of the Ohio Archaeological and Historial Society for many years, and he and Mrs. Hicks were present at the opening of several Ohio mounds.

Other books included are various archaeological volumes, Howe's Historical Collection of Ohio, nine volumes of the Annual Reports of the Bureau of Ethnology, and a few books of fiction.

The Ashville School wishes to thank Mrs. Hicks publicly for her fine contribution to the school.

Girl Scout Week Features Tenth Edition Of Handbook

Girl Scout Week, with its recurring demonstrations of the practical values that both girls and their community derive from the Scout program, gains particular interest this year by the appearance of the tenth edition of the Girl Scout Handbook. Published Monday, the Handbook charts the activities and objectives of Girl Scouting today.

This best-selling guide to preparation for adult responsibilities was first issued 40 years ago under the title "How Girls Can Serve Their Country" and was written by Girl Scouting's Founder, the late Juliette Low. Then, as now, the Handbook stressed girls' obligations as homemakers and citizens. Whole generations of Girl Scouts (there are more than seven million "alumnae") have come under the influence of this book.

The new Handbook, like its predecessors, has been shaped by constant concern for the place of girls in a changing world. At the time of World War I, its pages were full of information about wartime service. In the early 1920's marching and drill was abandoned and emphasis was placed on a broader range of useful skills plus program activities designed to place these skills at the service of the community.

The changing status of women through the 1920's and 30's was reflected in the program Girl Scouting offered their daughters. As women took their rightful place in community life, in business, in the arts and science, and as girls indicated their growing interest in and readiness for careers to match and surpass their mothers, the Girl Scout Handbook offered an increasing variety of preparation for careers in line with the growing maturity of its readers.

It is an interesting experience to examine the new Handbook and to check its content against one's own concept of what the 10-through-13 year old girl is capable of. The Handbook indicates that girls can do far more than many of us realized. Preteen-agers can be valued assistants in libraries, hospitals, day nurseries, playgrounds, and museums. They can even help adults to be better citizens by taking pledges to donate blood or by baby-sitting so busy mothers can vote.

In this Girl Scout Week, we all might profit by a look at this book with its ideas and information that form the starting point for Scout activities. It is more than a book—it's the blueprint that is shaping the fine women of the future.

The Ashville Elementary School recently accepted a gift of some 75 valuable reference books, donated by Mrs. Cynthia Roof Hicks in memory of the late Joseph S. Roof. Most of the books refer to the history and geography of Ohio and include the first thirty-eight volumes of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society Publications from the year 1900 to 1929. These volumes give a complete and interesting story of Ohio's history and deal in detail with the archaeological history of Ohio. Mr. Roof was a member of the Ohio Archaeological and Historial Society for many years, and he and Mrs. Hicks were present at the opening of several Ohio mounds.

Other books included are various archaeological volumes, Howe's Historical Collection of Ohio, nine volumes of the Annual Reports of the Bureau of Ethnology, and a few books of fiction.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists in Korea, looking worse every day by their own doing—but with some assists from the United States—are taking a beating in the psychological war.

Humiliated by their own countrymen who refused to return home after being captured, the Communists by a nakedly cruel proposal gave a good insight into why so many Red prisoners rejected repatriation.

This was in their demand that the prisoners be forced — even though it might require shooting hundreds of them as a terror tactic—to listen to Communists explain why they should return.

And this week the United States added to this picture of Communist savagery with two reports on the mental and physical torture and murder used by the Communists on the United Nations soldier sthey captured.

Under the Korea armistice agreement covering prisoners who refused to go home, 5,000 Indian troops were brought into Korea to guard these prisoners on both sides. This was to be the program:

The Communists would be permitted to talk face to face with the 16,500 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans who had been captured by the U.N. and refused repatriation. The U.N. would be allowed to do the same with the 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and 1 Briton who had been captured by the Communists and chose to remain with them.

These repatriation talks were under the supervision of a special internation group set up as the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), whose members are:

Sweden and Switzerland, both truly neutral in the war; Poland and Czechoslovakia, only theoretically neutral since both are Communist; and India, whose only contribution to the war was a medical unit.

The Communists talked to 921 Chinese and persuaded only 20, or 2 per cent, to return. Many of the others roundly cursed the Red "explainers" and suggested they too get away from communism while the getting was good.

The North Koreans rioted when the Indian troops sought to bring them before the "explainers."

The Communists, professed lovers of mankind, demanded that the North Koreans be brought before them. The Indian custodians, who might have had to kill hundreds, refused. The Swiss and Swedish members of NNRC also were opposed.

The U.N., in what seems like a shrewd maneuver, hadn't tried to talk to a single U.N. prisoner captured by the Communists. The U.N. may have decided to hold back while the world concentrated its attention on the Communists' humiliation.

This week the world got a scientific explanation of Communist barbarism. Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon and American delegate o the U.N. in New York, went before the U.N. with an analysis of Communist technique —mental torture, including threats of death—in making U.N. prisoners "confess" war crimes.

Yesterday the Army's war crimes division followed up with a report that an estimated 29,815 persons, including 6,113 American prisoners, had been tortured and slaughtered by the Communists during the war—not to extract confessions, but through savagery.

Examples of these Communist war crimes included: eyes gouged out; feet chopped off; men used for bayonet practice; prisoners, sitting in a ditch, killed with burp guns by their guards—what the Army called "all the sickening details of horror."

City Must Pay Store Damages

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has ruled Alliance must pay the Cope Furniture Co. $8,500. The court overruled the city's appeal from Stark County court decisions granting the award for damage to furniture flooded because of city negligence.

The store said damage resulted from a cut in the former Stark Electric Railway Co. embankment made by the city in extending a street three years ago. Heavy rain March 6, 1951, flowed through the cut into the store.

Dark Brown Taste

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cook thought it was Swiss chard when she picked the leaves from a tobacco plant in the doctor's garden. And now the physician and his wife are recovering from nicotine poisoning.

14 Persons Due For Trial For Contempt

COLUMBUS (AP)—Franklin County Prosecutor Frank Kearns says 14 persons will go on trial Nov. 16 for contempt of the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission.

His announcement Tuesday followed indictment of seven persons for refusing to answer questions asked by the commission. They, and seven indicted previously, claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution which says a person does not have to testify against himself in criminal cases.

Franklin County Common Pleas Judge William C. Bryant recently ruled commission witnesses cannot take refuge in that amendment because it does not apply to state agencies.

Indicted yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hupman of Clarksville, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pappas, Columbus; Marston A. Hamlin, Columbus; Vassell Thanel, Dayton; Harry McGill, Dayton.

Hupman was tried recently in Dayton on charges of lying when he filled out a non-Communist union affidavit. No verdict was reached. He is to be tried again in Cincinnati Jan. 5.

Pappas was a graduate assistant in the O.S.U. zoology and entomology department; his wife was a clerk at the university. Hamlin was a fine arts instructor.

Thanel is a United Electric Workers field organizer. McGill was identified as a Frigidaire Corp. employe and Hupman is a grocer. Both McGill and Hupman were members of the UE.

Kearns said he also intends to bring these persons to trial:

Mrs. Anna H. Morgan, Robert E. Lee Terrill, David Jackson and Oscar Smilack, all of Columbus; Philip Frankfeld and Andrew Remes, both of Cleveland; and Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Youngstown.

Juvenile Bureau Security Tightened

COLUMBUS (AP) — State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck has answered criticism of policies at the Bureau of Juvenile Research by empowering a high Ohio National Guard officer to take any necessary action to tighten security at the institution.

He announced appointment of Col. T. Lyston Fultz, 51, of Xenia, who just returned from Korea, to "special duty" at the BJR. Fultz has been given authority "to take whatever steps are necessary to reduce the number of walkaways at the institution to a minimum."

World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists in Korea, looking worse every day by their own doing—but with some assists from the United States—are taking a beating in the psychological war.

Humiliated by their own countrymen who refused to return home after being captured, the Communists by a nakedly cruel proposal gave a good insight into why so many Red prisoners rejected repatriation.

This was in their demand that the prisoners be forced — even though it might require shooting hundreds of them as a terror tactic—to listen to Communists explain why they should return.

And this week the United States added to this picture of Communist savagery with two reports on the mental and physical torture and murder used by the Communists on the United Nations soldier sthey captured.

Under the Korea armistice agreement covering prisoners who refused to go home, 5,000 Indian troops were brought into Korea to guard these prisoners on both sides. This was to be the program:

The Communists would be permitted to talk face to face with the 16,500 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans who had been captured by the U.N. and refused repatriation. The U.N. would be allowed to do the same with the 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and 1 Briton who had been captured by the Communists and chose to remain with them.

These repatriation talks were under the supervision of a special internation group set up as the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), whose members are:

Sweden and Switzerland, both truly neutral in the war; Poland and Czechoslovakia, only theoretically neutral since both are Communist; and India, whose only contribution to the war was a medical unit.

The Communists talked to 921 Chinese and persuaded only 20, or 2 per cent, to return. Many of the others roundly cursed the Red "explainers" and suggested they too get away from communism while the getting was good.

The North Koreans rioted when the Indian troops sought to bring them before the "explainers."

The Communists, professed lovers of mankind, demanded that the North Koreans be brought before them. The Indian custodians, who might have had to kill hundreds, refused. The Swiss and Swedish members of NNRC also were opposed.

The U.N., in what seems like a shrewd maneuver, hadn't tried to talk to a single U.N. prisoner captured by the Communists. The U.N. may have decided to hold back while the world concentrated its attention on the Communists' humiliation.

This week the world got a scientific explanation of Communist barbarism. Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon and American delegate o the U.N. in New York, went before the U.N. with an analysis of Communist technique —mental torture, including threats of death—in making U.N. prisoners "confess" war crimes.

Yesterday the Army's war crimes division followed up with a report that an estimated 29,815 persons, including 6,113 American prisoners, had been tortured and slaughtered by the Communists during the war—not to extract confessions, but through savagery.

Examples of these Communist war crimes included: eyes gouged out; feet chopped off; men used for bayonet practice; prisoners, sitting in a ditch, killed with burp guns by their guards—what the Army called "all the sickening details of horror."

City Must Pay Store Damages

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has ruled Alliance must pay the Cope Furniture Co. $8,500. The court overruled the city's appeal from Stark County court decisions granting the award for damage to furniture flooded because of city negligence.

The store said damage resulted from a cut in the former Stark Electric Railway Co. embankment made by the city in extending a street three years ago. Heavy rain March 6, 1951, flowed through the cut into the store.

Dark Brown Taste

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cook thought it was Swiss chard when she picked the leaves from a tobacco plant in the doctor's garden. And now the physician and his wife are recovering from nicotine poisoning.

14 Persons Due For Trial For Contempt

COLUMBUS (AP)—Franklin County Prosecutor Frank Kearns says 14 persons will go on trial Nov. 16 for contempt of the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission.

His announcement Tuesday followed indictment of seven persons for refusing to answer questions asked by the commission. They, and seven indicted previously, claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution which says a person does not have to testify against himself in criminal cases.

Franklin County Common Pleas Judge William C. Bryant recently ruled commission witnesses cannot take refuge in that amendment because it does not apply to state agencies.

Indicted yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hupman of Clarksville, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pappas, Columbus; Marston A. Hamlin, Columbus; Vassell Thanel, Dayton; Harry McGill, Dayton.

Hupman was tried recently in Dayton on charges of lying when he filled out a non-Communist union affidavit. No verdict was reached. He is to be tried again in Cincinnati Jan. 5.

Pappas was a graduate assistant in the O.S.U. zoology and entomology department; his wife was a clerk at the university. Hamlin was a fine arts instructor.

Thanel is a United Electric Workers field organizer. McGill was identified as a Frigidaire Corp. employe and Hupman is a grocer. Both McGill and Hupman were members of the UE.

Kearns said he also intends to bring these persons to trial:

Mrs. Anna H. Morgan, Robert E. Lee Terrill, David Jackson and Oscar Smilack, all of Columbus; Philip Frankfeld and Andrew Remes, both of Cleveland; and Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Youngstown.

Juvenile Bureau Security Tightened

COLUMBUS (AP) — State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck has answered criticism of policies at the Bureau of Juvenile Research by empowering a high Ohio National Guard officer to take any necessary action to tighten security at the institution.

He announced appointment of Col. T. Lyston Fultz, 51, of Xenia, who just returned from Korea, to "special duty" at the BJR. Fultz has been given authority "to take whatever steps are necessary to reduce the number of walkaways at the institution to a minimum."

Small Canada College Breeds 'Brain Trust'

KINSTON, ONT. (AP) — Canada's smallest college, located here, has no campus, professors or football team and its students write no exams. But they all graduate.

The college is concerned only with how to conduct total war. Its graduates are a war "brain trust." Its objective is to educate senior officers of the U.S. and Canadian armed forces and government departments in the principles of higher government administration.

A prospectus of the National Defense College says students are trained to become "thoroughly versed in interservice and interdepartmental planning, including political and economic aspects and the organization for the central direction of war."

The content of the courses taught at the college is highly secret. The students have access to top-secret information on Canada's ability to wage war, including aircraft production figures and information on how quickly army divisions could be mobilized. Secret documents from defense headquarters and other government departments are kept under guard.

The college opened in 1948. There are 27 students at present and a six-man staff, composed of the commandant, four directors and an adjutant. The lecturers are government officials, business leaders, university professors and officers of the armed forces of Canada, the United States and Commonwealth countries.

The students are hand-picked. They are the cream of the crop in government and the armed services. Most are men in their 30s—some are older—who in the event of war would play a major part in mobilization of manpower and industry, planning and coordination between the military and civil branches of government.

The present student body includes three Americans, one from the U.S. Army, one from the Navy and one U.S. foreign service officer.

Students are given specific problems to work out in "syndicates" of six or seven men. Their information is gleaned from various sources: the lectures; a 15,000-volume library on military and political science and economic and international affairs; 200 daily, weekly or monhtly periodicals; the secret library containing some 400 documents; and each other, as each student is an expert in his particular field.

"We pick each other's brains all the time," one officer-student said. "It's amazing what you learn."

Ohio Grange Passes Major Resolutions At Conference

CLEVELAND (AP) — About 1,100 delegates representing the grassroots of the Buckeye State yesterday passed several major resolutions at its annual convention here.

Of major importance was the statement that the Ohio Grange supports the Eisenhower administration's present parity price law while recommending that farm price supports be continued.

Parity is based on what is considered a normal economic period, and on the prices farmers received for their products and paid for the goods they purchased during that period. That parity law is designed to maintain the same relationship between the prices they pay and receive as existed during the base, or "normal" period.

The Grange also advocated that tariffs and duties on imports and exports of farm products be gradually lowered, and possibly eliminated, for the purpose of stimulating world trade in agricultural goods. It said present tariffs and duties should be carefully reviewed.

The first concern of any farm program, the grange said, should be the "efficient, family - type farm." It added that the program should bring about a sound, stable farm income and eliminate fluctuation of prices.

A sound and fair marketing program, said the grange, should be based on the home market, with emphasis on intensive advertising, full employment and chemurgy as applied to the soil.

Committee reports approved by the delegates also urged consideration of the use of a two-price system to help reduce surpluses, and favored greater construction of grain storage facilities by farm and other private interests.

One resolution reaffirmed the grange's insistence on "the right of the farmers to market their commodities, purchase supplies and employ services for themselves on a cooperative, non-profit basis.

The Grange commended the U. S. Department of Agriculture for its effort to secure and record the thinking of the farm population in formulating a farm program.

Another resolution recommended the adoption of a standard method of grading pork on the hoof. Currently, pork is largely graded after slaughter.

The Grange came out against the proposed 500 million dollar revenue bond for Ohio highway purposes, and urged a pay-as-you go basis in highway financing. It also recommended that flashing lights be installed to mark the beginning of each divided highway and at all railroad crossings over state and county roads

In another action, the Grange urged a severance tax on all minerals taken from land in the State of Ohio. The revenue, the Grange said, should be used only for the benefits of Ohio's public schools.

Next year's convention, the Grange decided, will be held in Columbus.

Solution To Problem Of Traffic Lies In Living In Supermarket

NEW YORK (AP)—America is overlooking a simple, easy solution to one of its biggest worries, the traffic problem.

The answer lies in the supermarkets. Why not live in them instead of just shopping in them?

Now wait. That isn't as silly as it sounds. Let me explain.

What causes the nation's traffic jams anyway? Because we have to go to too many different places to get things done. A man lives in the suburbs, but he needs his own car, a train and a bus ride to get to his office in a city skyscraper. The movie house he patronizes is in one direction, the shopping center where his wife buys the groceries lies in the second direction, his kids' school in a third point of the compass, and their church in a fourth.

It is all this traveling back and forth that causes traffic jams. Building more and bigger roads eventually just leads to more and bigger traffic jams, as they create more places for you to go.

Why not simplify life by bringing everything a family needs into one coordinated center that would remove all necessity for traveling?

The supermarket is already a long step in this direction. Today you can't get married, buried or even send your kids to school in a supermarket. But there is no reason you shouldn't be able to in the future.

Why not cross-breed the present supermarket, skyscraper, department store and pre-fabricated home into a single all-purpose building providing everything a family could want in a well-run civilization?

The result would be a true "supermarket city," and a series of these self-sufficient cities spread across the country would end the traffic problem forever.

Let us see how such a supermarket city might operate:

The heart of the city is a tall skyscraper topped by a helicopter landing field. Leading out from it are a series of glass-roofed avenues along which automatic moving sidewalks trundle you to and from the skyscraper.

The pre-fab homes, linked to one another to cut down heating costs, line the avenues. As you come home from work, your wife has the door open, and you leap from the moving sidewalk and land in your own living room.

Atop your home is two feet of earth so that you won't lose touch with nature. A visitor asks for and your wife replies, "He's up on the roof cutting the lawn."

In the morning you and your wife and the kids jump on the moving sidewalk and go into town together. You get into a skyscraper elevator.

"Third floor—schools, universities and children's playrooms," sings out the elevator operator, and the kids get off.

"Fourth floor—doctors, hospitals, dentists and cemetery lots," drones the operator. Your wife steps out to get a tooth filled. Later she'll drop down to the second floor to buy a house dress, some aspirin, and a package of bird seed.

"Tenth floor — Acme Plastic underwear Company," mumbles the operator. This is where you work, and out you go.

You don't have to leave immediately from your job for home. You can meet your wife and kids and eat at the family restaurant on the 11th floor, then drop the children off at the 13th, or babysitting and night nursery floor, and ride on up to the 18th floor and take in a 3D movie.

Later you pick up the kids, hop back on the automatic sidewalk and zip happily home after a merry day of work and play.

In the supermarket city there would be no need to own an auto. The present highways would be used only by huge supply trucks, and they could hog the road as much as they wanted for all you cared. You would be on the highway only when you took a bus to the beach.

Of course, a supermarket city like this could get pretty crowded, too. But it at least would move the traffic problem indoors out of the rain.

And isn't that more than is being done now?

Community Club Plans New Projects

Ashville Community Club held a dinner meeting Monday night in the Village Coffee Shop.

Following the dinner, Robert Bausum, Club president, directed a business meeting. In addition to reports, the following business was transacted.

The purchase of a bulletin board for announcements to be placed in the post office was authorized; a committee was appointed to seek candidates for village council, since it is reported only one candidate filed; plans for the annual Halloween parade to be held Saturday night were announced; the painting of the Ashville sign at Route 23 was authorized; suggestions were considered for community improvements, including the replacement of the village street lighting system; the building committee was authorized to secure estimates for the construction of a new shelter house in Community Park to be used for July Fourth celebrations and other community entertainment; and dues were set at $10 per year, beginning April 1, with members receiving free dinners at Community Club expense.

The Ashville Community Club, which derives its income from the annual Independence Day celebration, has spent much of its income on community projects, centering largely in the Ashville Community Park. Many of these improvements have been made without the Club receiving any particular publicity.

AMONG THESE worth-while additions to the village park are the lighting of the public tennis courts, wood-burning and charcoal ovens for picnickers, drinking fountains, part of the cost of the present park shelter house and the baseball bleachers. The Club during the years also has sponsored several Halloween parades and masquerades; Christmas treats for youngsters; Christmas baskets for needy families; the annual Independence Day celebrations; the campaign for the building of an additional elementary school building; and the Pickaway County Corn Festival Oct. 23-25, 1941, which was interrupted by World War Two and was not resumed.

The Ashville Community Club is to be congratulated for sponsoring and providing all these community projects in the past; and present plans of the club indicate even greater achievements for the club in the future.

Among past presidents of the club are Harold J. Bowers, O. R. Gable, O. J. Ward, Guy G. Cline, Wade A. Canter and Dr. C. J. Rockey. The present incumbent is Robert Bausum.

4-H, FFA Members May Enter Contest

All 4-H members and boys of the Future Farmers of America are eligible to enter a judging contest to be held in connection with the Ohio Ayrshire Promotional Sale. The sale will be held at 10 a. m. Monday on the fairgrounds at Delaware.

Three rings of cattle from the sale will be shown. The three contestants having the highest score from a 4-H Club or FFA Chapter will constitute a team. Several prizes will be given, including a registered Ayrshire heifer for first place.

Dem Chief Plans Tour Of Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Rep. Robert W. Reider (D-Ottawa) plans to make a swing through the state soon to "sound out" Democratic sentiment for the 1954 campaign.

Reider is minority whip in the Ohio House of Representatives, and a publisher in Port Clinton.

He has urged what he terms revitalization of his party in Ohio, and a greater voice in party affairs. Reider asserted that the Democrats could gain control of the Legislature next year if "our leaders take necessary steps to fill the ticket."

Ashville Planning Halloween March

The annual Halloween masquerade parade, sponsored by Ashville Community Club will be held in Ashville Saturday night.

The parade will form on W. Main St. near the Ashland and Sohio stations at 7 p. m. Judging of the entrants will take place following the parade under the tennis court lights in Community Park.

Judging will be done according to the following age groups: Up to nine years of age; nine to 15 years; and 15 years to the oldest person masked. The classifications in each age group are: prettiest, ugliest, most comical, best ghost, best witch, best hobo, best patriotic, fattest person masked and best-dressed couple.

There also will be prizes for the youngest child and the oldest person masked. Each masked entrant in the parade will receive a consolation prize if he is not a winner. Everyone is invited to mask and to attend.

Movie-Makers Face Big Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Suit for $400,000 has been filed against Columbia Pictures, Inc., by Mrs. Carolyn Ward Satterfield for herself and three children, claiming her husband was frightened to death when two movie planes dived within 30 feet of their home.

Mrs. Satterfield alleged in her complaint yesterday that the planes dived low over their ranch home near Newhall, Calif., last March 3 while filming "Mission Over Korea." She stated that her children became hysterical and her husband Robert died from shock.

'Phantom Gunman' Case Is Solved

The "phantom" whose shotgun peppered a couple l a v i n g the courthouse here turned out to be 3½-year-old David Williamson.

As for David himself, he hardly knew what it was all about.

Betty Fonner, Washington County home demonstration agent, and Kenneth Ackerman, associate county agent, left the courthouse after work, to be met by a blast from a shotgun. Four pellets hit Ackerman on the arm and leg. Miss Fonner was struck on the hip and foot. David, in what words he could find to tell about it, admitted to his mother that he pulled the trigger.

Human Relations 'Errors' Cited

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Widespread misunderstanding of the purpose of human relations has "interfered significantly with the effectiveness of industrial enterprise in recent years," an Ohio educator said here yesterday.

Dr. Douglas McGregor, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, described as a "major error in judgment" the assumption that personnel administration consists largely i dealing with human relations. He told a group of industrial executives this attitude would be the same s thinking of the engineering function as "solely the process of repairing equipment when it breaks down."

World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists in Korea, looking worse every day by their own doing—but with some assists from the United States—are taking a beating in the psychological war.

Humiliated by their own countrymen who refused to return home after being captured, the Communists by a nakedly cruel proposal gave a good insight into why so many Red prisoners rejected repatriation.

This was in their demand that the prisoners be forced — even though it might require shooting hundreds of them as a terror tactic—to listen to Communists explain why they should return.

And this week the United States added to this picture of Communist savagery with two reports on the mental and physical torture and murder used by the Communists on the United Nations soldier sthey captured.

Under the Korea armistice agreement covering prisoners who refused to go home, 5,000 Indian troops were brought into Korea to guard these prisoners on both sides. This was to be the program:

The Communists would be permitted to talk face to face with the 16,500 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans who had been captured by the U.N. and refused repatriation. The U.N. would be allowed to do the same with the 335 South Koreans, 23 Americans and 1 Britton who had been captured by the Communists and chose to remain with them.

These repatriation talks were under the supervision of a special internation group set up as the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), whose members are:

Sweden and Switzerland, both truly neutral in the war; Poland and Czechoslovakia, only theoretically neutral since both are Communist; and India, whose only contribution to the war was a medical unit.

The Communists talked to 921 Chinese and persuaded only 20, or 2 per cent, to return. Many of the others roundly cursed the Red "explainers" and suggested they too get away from communism while the getting was good.

The North Koreans rioted when the Indian troops sought to bring them before the "explainers."

The Communists, professed lovers of mankind, demanded that the North Koreans be brought before them. The Indian custodians, who might have had to kill hundreds, refused. The Swiss and Swedish members of NNRC also were opposed.

The U.N., in what seems like a shrewd maneuver, hadn't tried to talk to a single U.N. prisoner captured by the Communists. The U.N. may have decided to hold back while the world concentrated its attention on the Communists' humiliation.

This week the world got a scientific explanation of Communist barbarism. Dr. Charles Mayo, famous surgeon and American delegate o the U.N. in New York, went before the U.N. with an analysis of Communist technique —mental torture, including threats of death—in making U.N. prisoners "confess" war crimes.

Yesterday the Army's war crimes division followed up with a report that an estimated 29,815 persons, including 6,113 American prisoners, had been tortured and slaughtered by the Communists during the war—not to extract confessions, but through savagery.

Examples of these Communist war crimes included: eyes gouged out; feet chopped off; men used for bayonet practice; prisoners, sitting in a ditch, killed with burp guns by their guards—what the Army called "all the sickening details of horror."

City Must Pay Store Damages

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has ruled Alliance must pay the Cope Furniture Co. $8,500. The court overruled the city's appeal from Stark County court decisions granting the award for damage to furniture flooded because of city negligence.

The store said damage resulted from a cut in the former Stark Electric Railway Co. embankment made by the city in extending a street three years ago. Heavy rain March 6, 1951, flowed through the cut into the store.

Dark Brown Taste

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The cook thought it was Swiss chard when she picked the leaves from a tobacco plant in the doctor's garden. And now the physician and his wife are recovering from nicotine poisoning.

14 Persons Due For Trial For Contempt

COLUMBUS (AP)—Franklin County Prosecutor Frank Kearns says 14 persons will go on trial Nov. 16 for contempt of the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission.

His announcement Tuesday followed indictment of seven persons for refusing to answer questions asked by the commission. They, and seven indicted previously, claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution which says a person does not have to testify against himself in criminal cases.

Franklin County Common Pleas Judge William C. Bryant recently ruled commission witnesses cannot take refuge in that amendment because it does not apply to state agencies.

Indicted yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hupman of Clarksville, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pappas, Columbus; Marston A. Hamlin, Columbus; Vassell Thanel, Dayton; Harry McGill, Dayton.

Hupman was tried recently in Dayton on charges of lying when he filled out a non-Communist union affidavit. No verdict was reached. He is to be tried again in Cincinnati Jan. 5.

Pappas was a graduate assistant in the O.S.U. zoology and entomology department; his wife was a clerk at the university. Hamlin was a fine arts instructor.

Thanel is a United Electric Workers field organizer. McGill was identified as a Frigidaire Corp. employe and Hupman is a grocer. Both McGill and Hupman were members of the UE.

Kearns said he also intends to bring these persons to trial:

Mrs. Anna H. Morgan, Robert E. Lee Terrill, David Jackson and Oscar Smilack, all of Columbus; Philip Frankfeld and Andrew Remes, both of Cleveland; and Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Youngstown.

Juvenile Bureau Security Tightened

COLUMBUS (AP) — State Welfare Director John H. Lamneck has answered criticism of policies at the Bureau of Juvenile Research by empowering a high Ohio National Guard officer to take any necessary action to tighten security at the institution.

He announced appointment of Col. T. Lyston Fultz, 51, of Xenia, who just returned from Korea, to "special duty" at the BJR. Fultz has been given authority "to take whatever steps are necessary to reduce the number of walkaways at the institution to a minimum."

Young Yankee Tells Of Visit Into Russia

Youth Tells Moments Of Pleasure, Regret And Trace Of Terror

Editor's Note: — Zander Hollander, 22-year-old University of Michigan graduate, recently made a tour of the Soviet Union. Here's his story of what it's like to be a young American on the loose in Russia—and a candid Soviet view of U. S. basketball.

By ZANDER HOLLANDER

NEW YORK (AP) — How does it feel to be a young American in the Soviet Union? There are moments of pleasure, regret—and a trace of terror.

I never was followed in the Soviet Union—I thought. Yet the searching finger of Soviet surveillance showed itself at odd times.

My first night in Moscow we politely refused when Intourist (the Soviet version of Traveler's Aid plus Chamber of Commerce) suggested we take a guide to the Stanislavski ballet.

But once there, a pleasant extrovert named Georgi, who spoke English, turned up in the next seat. He claimed to be a teacher at a language institute. Afterwards he invited us for a drink.

At the Cuktyel Holl a crowd of Muscovites was clamoring for entry. But Georgi said a word to the doorman and we were in, another word to the waitress and a special table was set up for us.

A couple of muscular characters at the bar shouted greetings to him.

"Your friends" I asked.

"Yes," he smiled confusedly. "They teach at the institute too."

Comrade Fedotova, for 25 years a teacher in the Moscow elementary schools, showed how effectively the Soviets can arouse patriotism among their citizens.

She was a stolid woman in her late 50s, but like most Russian women she looked 10 years older. Yet she looked young when she told of the grandest experience of her life—the day five years ago when she received the Order of Lenin from Nicolai Shvernik, then President of the Supreme Soviet.

"Comrade Shvernik congratulated me personally for my service to the people as a teacher," she said. "This high honor has made me work harder. I will strive to do my best till the closing days of my life."

Mme. Fedotova and the other teachers who got medals turned down the cash awards of thousands of rubles which went with them.

"It is the honor that counts," she told me. "I will never forget it."

There was no doubting her sincerity.

The day I went to the American Embassy, the cabbie took me to the old one—now locked and shuttered. He wanted his fare, and I wouldn't pay.

Enter the MVD militia on the side of the cabbie. I still refused to pay because I hadn't been taken where I wanted to go.

Enter more MVD, this time speaking German. The argument shifted into "Ja" versus "Nein."

Enter more MVD, English-speaking this time—and I won my case.

"This man is a guest of the Soviet Union," the MVD man told the glum cabbie. "Take him where he asked to go and forget this fare. Next time know where you are going."

In a drably modern student room at Moscow state university I learned how Russian kids like their basketball. In a make-believe scrimmage we agreed that Russians favor a "possession" game, relying on set shots and holding onto the ball to win."

But the "fast break"—which dominates the game in the United States — is getting popular. The Russians had seen the "razzle-dazzle" tactics of the Americans at the Olympic Games, and anything we could do they could do better.

My money is still on the Madison Square Garden variety of basketball.

The editor of Komsomolskaya Pravda, Comrade Gorunov, insited that his newspaper—the organ of the Young Communist League—had free access to news from America.

"Our foreign department gets the New York Times and Herald-Tribune every day," he said.

Surprised at this first sign of American newspapers, we wanted to see for ourselves. They were nowhere in sight.

The English-language news editor had a ready explanation: "They are taken away when I'm through with them—I don't know where. I recall that your President Eisenhower made a speech a few days ago."

It was possible the speech had been run in the Moscow press, so I asked what he'd said.

Gorunov scowled.

"I'm sorry," stammered the English-language news editor, "but my English is not very good."

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Plenty of pumpkins for Hallowe'en and good buys in roast lamb and pork chops for weekend feasting are available in many of the nation's food stores this week. Beef prices in some areas are a shade higher.

The pumpkin situation is described by market sources as highly favorable. Aided by a prolonged dry spell in many growing areas, the harvest has been more than abundant and pumpkins now on the market are of better - than - usual quality and reasonably priced. They are tagged as a good buy for their food value as well as for Hallowe'en frolicking by the small fry.

Standout buys on most meat counters across the country are lamb and pork. One nationwide chain is featuring roast leg of lamb and lamb chops as its top meat specils for the coming weekend; another is slashing prices on center cut pork chops in some cities by 2 to 10 cents a pound.

Sirloin steak and beef rib roast are mostly unchanged or higher this week; fryers are about the same. Heavily promoted seafood specials include frozen ocean perch and frozen halibut steaks. Butter prices are up a little here and there despite the huge stocks in government warehouses; eggs are unchanged or slightly lower.

Practically all kinds of fruit are in plentiful supply for Hallowe'en menus. Apples again head the list —whether of the eating or cooking variety, they are abundant and cheap. Grapefruit, down in price from last week, is listed as a good buy; Florida oranges are also down, but the Californias are higher. Grapes, particularly the Red Tokay variety, are priced to appeal to thrifty buyers.

Best buys on vegetable counters in most areas include spinach, cabbages, onions and potatoes. Running a close second are cauliflower, peppers, carrots, broccoli, sweet potatoes and brussels sprouts. Want to try an avocado pear? They're plentiful and cheap right now.

If you've had difficulty finding Idaho potatoes at your favorite food store, here's the reason: With spuds generally in surplus supply, prices received by farmers for the big Idaho variety are only about half what they were last year. So growers are holding back a large part of the crop and putting it into storage.

Comedian Target Of Damage Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Suit for $1,017,000 damages has been filed by writer Lewis Meltzer against comedian Danny Thomas and the producers of his television show.

Meltzer charges that Louis F. Edelman, Martero Productions and Thomas orally approved his format for Thomas' series of half-hour shows. He claims he was promised $1,500 a show as chief writer, 5 per cent of the profits and royalties if his format was accepted. Meltzer contends it is his format that is being used.

Hunters Fined

TOLEDO (AP) — Judge Frank L. Kloeb fined two hunters $250 each yesterday for shooting ducks in baited areas. They were James R. Tyrell, co-lessee of a marsh in Ottawa County, and William T. Kahliff of Elyria.

Taxmen Can't Help

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A New Mexico serviceman, apparently in need of the $23 refund he claims, filed his 1953 income tax return yesterday. Internal revenue officials say he won't be able to get the refund until after the first of the year, however.

Whooping Cranes Arrive In South

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)— Wildlife officials have proudly announced the arrival of six whooping cranes, including one baby whooper, at their winter refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast.

They are the first of the world's only flock of whooping cranes to arrive at the winter range from their unknown breeding ground somewhere near the Arctic Circle.

Now it will be a constant watch and check for other arrivals. Only 21 whooping cranes flew [illegible] from the Arkansas wildlife refuge here last April.

OLD FASHIONED...

like washday without an Electric dryer

Yes, it's old fashioned to continue to let the Sun fade colors in your clothes. An electric dryer is the only dryer on the market today that will not fade colors. For only an electric dryer uses clean ... non-fading ... infra-red heat to gently dry clothes. And even after months of washing and drying ... white things stay dazzling white ... colors sparkling bright. You'll be pleasantly surprised to find your clothes come out of an electric dryer kitten soft ... wrinkle-free ... damp or bone dry ... simply by setting a dial.

Remember, ALL clothes dryers use electricity ... so choose the one that's ALL ELECTRIC!

KINSTON, ONT. (AP) — Canada's smallest college, located here, has no campus, professors or football team and its students write no exams. But they all graduate.

The college is concerned only with how to conduct total war. Its graduates are a war "brain trust." Its objective is to educate senior officers of the U.S. and Canadian armed forces and government departments in the principles of higher government administration.

A prospectus of the National Defense College says students are trained to become "thoroughly versed in interservice and interdepartmental planning, including political and economic aspects and the organization for the central direction of war."

The content of the courses taught at the college is highly secret. The students have access to top-secret information on Canada's ability to wage war, including aircraft production figures and information on how quickly army divisions could be mobilized. Secret documents from defense headquarters and other government departments are kept under guard.

The college opened in 1948. There are 27 students at present and a six-man staff, composed of the commandant, four directors and an adjutant. The lecturers are government officials, business leaders, university professors and officers of the armed forces of Canada, the United States and Commonwealth countries.

The students are hand-picked. They are the cream of the crop in government and the armed services. Most are men in their 30s—some are older—who in the event of war would play a major part in mobilization of manpower and industry, planning and coordination between the military and civil branches of government.

The present student body includes three Americans, one from the U.S. Army, one from the Navy and one U.S. foreign service officer.

Students are given specific problems to work out in "syndicates" of six or seven men. Their information is gleaned from various sources: the lectures; a 15,000-volume library on military and political science and economic and international affairs; 200 daily, weekly or monhtly periodicals; the secret library containing some 400 documents; and each other, as each student is an expert in his particular field.

"We pick each other's brains all the time," one officer-student said. "It's amazing what you learn."

Ohio Grange Passes Major Resolutions At Conference

CLEVELAND (AP) — About 1,100 delegates representing the grassroots of the Buckeye State yesterday passed several major resolutions at its annual convention here.

Of major importance was the statement that the Ohio Grange supports the Eisenhower administration's present parity price law while recommending that farm price supports be continued.

Parity is based on what is considered a normal economic period, and on the prices farmers received for their products and paid for the goods they purchased during that period. That parity law is designed to maintain the same relationship between the prices they pay and receive as existed during the base, or "normal" period.

The Grange also advocated that tariffs and duties on imports and exports of farm products be gradually lowered, and possibly eliminated, for the purpose of stimulating world trade in agricultural goods. It said present tariffs and duties should be carefully reviewed.

The first concern of any farm program, the grange said, should be the "efficient, family - type farm." It added that the program should bring about a sound, stable farm income and eliminate fluctuation of prices.

A sound and fair marketing program, said the grange, should be based on the home market, with emphasis on intensive advertising, full employment and chemurgy as applied to the soil.

Committee reports approved by the delegates also urged consideration of the use of a two-price system to help reduce surpluses, and favored greater construction of grain storage facilities by farm and other private interests.

One resolution reaffirmed the grange's insistence on "the right of the farmers to market their commodities, purchase supplies and employ services for themselves on a cooperative, non-profit basis.

The Grange commended the U. S. Department of Agriculture for its effort to secure and record the thinking of the farm population in formulating a farm program.

Another resolution recommended the adoption of a standard method of grading pork on the hoof. Currently, pork is largely graded after slaughter.

The Grange came out against the proposed 500 million dollar revenue bond for Ohio highway purposes, and urged a pay-as-you go basis in highway financing. It also recommended that flashing lights be installed to mark the beginning of each divided highway and at all railroad crossings over state and county roads

In another action, the Grange urged a severance tax on all minerals taken from land in the State of Ohio. The revenue, the Grange said, should be used only for the benefits of Ohio's public schools.

Next year's convention, the Grange decided, will be held in Columbus.

Tigers To Tangle With Balanced Greenfield Crew In Friday Game

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team will meet a well-balanced and determined Greenfield McClain crew Friday night in their bid for the 1953 South Central Ohio League championship.

The Greenfielders are to put a medium-sized offensive unit into operation against the CHS'ers in the encounter.

Greenfield officials said the McClain offensive lineup calls for a line averaging about 165 pounds and a backfield somewhat about the same, with its heaviest attacker the 175-pound fullback.

On defense, however, two large tackles in the 200-pound class will be shoved into the lineup, part of the Greenfield advantage in reserve strength. The McClain clan is to dress about 35 players for the encounter, while Circleville probably will field only about 30 lads.

BOTH TEAMS appear about equal in the ability of their backs to carry the ball into the enemy paydirt. Neither team has an outstanding scoring back, but each has a lineup of backfielders who have been scoring alternately throughout the season.

Greenfield is bringing an unblemished season record to date into Friday's fracas, while the Tigers will enter the fray with two losses in six starts. Both teams are undefeated in league play to date.

Circleville has advanced in league play to make a bid for the title by defeating Wilmington, 37-7; and Hillsboro, 15-14. Greenfield's title shot comes as the result of victories over Washington C. H., 40-0; and Wilmington, 41-0.

After Friday's match, both Greenfied and Circleville have one more league encounter ahead of them. Circleville has yet to meet Washington C. H.; which has been making weak showings this season; and Greenfield must yet meet the Indians of Hillsboro, who gave the Tigers a rugged time of it in their meeting.

Probable starting lineup for the invading McClain clan will be:

Ends—John Tudor and Earl Miller.

Tackles — Charles Karnes and Wayne Keplinger.

Center—Carl Manley.

Quarterback—Norman Irvin.

Halfbacks—Russ Shonkwiler and Dutch Purdin.

Fullback—Tom Hicks.

The Greenfield team is to be clad in blue jersies and gold pants for the battle here. Tiger gridders will be clad in white jersies and red pants.

Circleville is to wind up its pregame practice sessions Thursday evening in an under-the-light workout at the high school field. Kickoff time for Friday's crucial SCOL match will be 8 p. m.

Giel Leading Statistics In Big 10 Tally

The All-America leads the conference in total offense with a gain of 602 yards in four games. He is second in rushing with 397, and second in passing with a .545 completion average and a gain of 227.

As a safety man on defense, Giel tops the league on punt returns with a 16.6 average in eight runbacks. He is second in pass interceptions with three and second in kickoff returns with a 25.6 average.

Although Giel is dominating the records, his pace is not as sensational on offense as Illinois' sophomore star, J. C. Caroline, who in only two Big Ten games, leads in rushing with 397 for a spectacular average per carry of 8.8. Giel's average is 3.8.

John Borton, Ohio State quarterback who missed one game with injury, is ranked No. 1 passing. He has completed 18 out of 31 tosses in two games for a .581 completion mark. His aerial gain has been 219.

Caroline is second on total offense, his record being based strictly on running since he has not thrown a pass. Third is Indiana's Florian Helinski, who has made all but one of his total 357 yards by passing.

'Skins Ready For Battle With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Washington's Redskins, who came within 12 minutes of grabbing the league lead the first time they met Cleveland, limp into Ohio Sunday for another shot at Coach Paul Brown's undefeated Browns.

The 'Skins, unbeaten until they met Cleveland two weeks ago, led the Browns by one point early in the fourth period of the first game. But then Cleveland's Otto Graham pitched to Dante Lavelli for a 26-yard touchdown.

Brown, of course, expects more trouble this time. "It's always harder the second time you play a team," he says. "Especially when you've won the first one.

"Then, too, our fellows have been on a pretty sharp mental edge for two weeks in a row.

"We were up for Washington and even higher for the (New York) Giants last Sunday.

"That doesn't go on forever. There's bound to be a letup and that's when your upset occurs."

He contends Brown "must be a master psychologist. Other teams have letdowns and get pushed over by opponents that didn't figure to beat 'em. That never—or hardly ever—seems to happen to the Browns."

Booster Meeting Planned Tuesday

A meeting of Circleville High School sports followers will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the high school social rooms to reorganize the Circleville Booster Club.

Tuesday's Booster reorganization meeting is expected to be well attended. Approximately 170 Booster Club membership tickets have been sold to date.

Cards Remodel From Ground Up

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, building for a National League pennant, are building from the ground up.

They're remodeling Busch Stadium from top to bottom.

Included in the face lifting are new seats (measuring 21 inches across the beam as compared to the old 18-inch width) new dugouts, new player clubhouses and a new drainage system for the infield.

Also on tap in the million-dollar program, to be completed by opening day next spring, is a genuine garden in what once were the center field bleachers.

Solution To Problem Of Traffic Lies In Living In Supermarket

The answer lies in the supermarkets. Why not live in them instead of just shopping in them?

Now wait. That isn't as silly as it sounds. Let me explain.

What causes the nation's traffic jams anyway? Because we have to go to too many different places to get things done. A man lives in the suburbs, but he needs his own car, a train and a bus ride to get to his office in a city skyscraper. The movie house he patronizes is in one direction, the shopping center where his wife buys the groceries lies in the second direction, his kids' school in a third point of the compass, and their church in a fourth.

It is all this traveling back and forth that causes traffic jams. Building more and bigger roads eventually just leads to more and bigger traffic jams, as they create more places for you to go.

Why not simplify life by bringing everything a family needs into one coordinated center that would remove all necessity for traveling?

The supermarket is already a long step in this direction. Today you can't get married, buried or even send your kids to school in a supermarket. But there is no reason you shouldn't be able to in the future.

Why not cross-breed the present supermarket, skyscraper, department store and pre-fabricated home into a single all-purpose building providing everything a family could want in a well-run civilization?

The result would be a true "supermarket city," and a series of these self-sufficient cities spread across the country would end the traffic problem forever.

Let us see how such a supermarket city might operate:

The heart of the city is a tall skyscraper topped by a helicopter landing field. Leading out from it are a series of glass-roofed avenues along which automatic moving sidewalks trundle you to and from the skyscraper.

The pre-fab homes, linked to one another to cut down heating costs, line the avenues. As you come home from work, your wife has the door open, and you leap from the moving sidewalk and land in your own living room.

Atop your home is two feet of earth so that you won't lose touch with nature. A visitor asks for and your wife replies, "He's up on the roof cutting the lawn."

In the morning you and your wife and the kids jump on the moving sidewalk and go into town together. You get into a skyscraper elevator.

"Third floor—schools, universities and children's playrooms," sings out the elevator operator, and the kids get off.

"Fourth floor—doctors, hospitals, dentists and cemetery lots," drones the operator. Your wife steps out to get a tooth filled. Later she'll drop down to the second floor to buy a house dress, some aspirin, and a package of bird seed.

"Tenth floor — Acme Plastic underwear Company," mumbles the operator. This is where you work, and out you go.

You don't have to leave immediately from your job for home. You can meet your wife and kids and eat at the family restaurant on the 11th floor, then drop the children off at the 13th, or baby-sitting and night nursery floor, and ride on up to the 18th floor and take in a 3D movie.

Later you pick up the kids, hop back on the automatic sidewalk and zip happily home after a merry day of work and play.

In the supermarket city there would be no need to own an auto. The present highways would be used only by huge supply trucks, and they could hog the road as much as they wanted for all you cared. You would be on the highway only when you took a bus to the beach.

Of course, a supermarket city like this could get pretty crowded, too. But it at least would move the traffic problem indoors out of the rain.

And isn't that more than is being done now?

Community Club Plans New Projects

Ashville Community Club held a dinner meeting Monday night in the Village Coffee Shop.

Following the dinner, Robert Bausum, Club president, directed a business meeting. In addition to reports, the following business was transacted.

The purchase of a bulletin board for announcements to be placed in the post office was authorized; a committee was appointed to seek candidates for village council, since it is reported only one candidate filed; plans for the annual Halloween parade to be held Saturday night were announced; the painting of the Ashville sign at Route 23 was authorized; suggestions were considered for community improvements, including the replacement of the village street lighting system; the building committee was authorized to secure estimates for the construction of a new shelter house in Community Park to be used for July Fourth celebrations and other community entertainment; and dues were set at $10 per year, beginning April 1, with members receiving free dinners at Community Club expense.

The Ashville Community Club, which derives its income from the annual Independence Day celebration, has spent much of its income on community projects, centering largely in the Ashville Community Park. Many of these improvements have been made without the Club receiving any particular publicity.

AMONG THESE worth-while additions to the village park are the lighting of the public tennis courts, wood-burning and charcoal ovens for picnickers, drinking fountains, part of the cost of the present park shelter house and the baseball bleachers. The Club during the years also has sponsored several Halloween parades and masquerades; Christmas treats for youngsters; Christmas baskets for needy families; the annual Independence Day celebrations; the campaign for the building of an additional elementary school building; and the Pickaway County Corn Festival Oct. 23-25, 1941, which was interrupted by World War Two and was not resumed.

The Ashville Community Club is to be congratulated for sponsoring and providing all these community projects in the past; and present plans of the club indicate even greater achievements for the club in the future.

Among past presidents of the club are Harold J. Bowers, O. R. Gable, O. J. Ward, Guy G. Cline, Wade A. Canter and Dr. C. J. Rockey. The present incumbent is Robert Bausum.

Ashville Planning Halloween March

The annual Halloween masquerade parade, sponsored by Ashville Community Club will be held in Ashville Saturday night.

The parade will form on W. Main St. near the Ashland and Sohio stations at 7 p. m. Judging of the entrants will take place following the parade under the tennis court lights in Community Park.

Judging will be done according to the following age groups: Up to nine years of age; nine to 15 years; and 15 years to the oldest person masked. The classifications in each age group are: prettiest, ugliest, most comical, best ghost, best witch, best hobo, best patriotic, fattest person masked and best-dressed couple.

There also will be prizes for the youngest child and the oldest person masked. Each masked entrant in the parade will receive a consolation prize if he is not a winner. Everyone is invited to mask and to attend.

4-H, FFA Members May Enter Contest

All 4-H members and boys of the Future Farmers of America are eligible to enter a judging contest to be held in connection with the Ohio Ayrshire Promotional Sale. The sale will be held at 10 a. m. Monday on the fairgrounds at Delaware.

Three rings of cattle from the sale will be shown. The three contestants having the highest score from a 4-H Club or FFA Chapter will constitute a team. Several prizes will be given, including a registered Ayrshire heifer for first place.

Dem Chief Plans Tour Of Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Rep. Robert W. Reider (D-Ottawa) plans to make a swing through the state soon to "sound out" Democratic sentiment for the 1954 campaign.

Reider is minority whip in the Ohio House of Representatives, and a publisher in Port Clinton.

He has urged what he terms revitalization of his party in Ohio, and a greater voice in party affairs. Reider asserted that the Democrats could gain control of the Legislature next year if "our leaders take necessary steps to fill the ticket."

Movie-Makers Face Big Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Suit for $400,000 has been filed against Columbia Pictures, Inc., by Mrs. Carolyn Ward Satterfield for herself and three children, claiming her husband was frightened to death when two movie planes dived within 30 feet of their home.

Mrs. Satterfield alleged in her complaint yesterday that the planes dived low over their ranch home near Newhall, Calif., last March 3 while filming "Mission Over Korea." She stated that her children became hysterical and her husband Robert died from shock.

'Phantom Gunman' Case Is Solved

The "phantom" whose shotgun peppered a couple living the courthouse here turned out to be 3½-year-old David Williamson.

As for David himself, he hardly knew what it was all about.

Betty Fonner, Washington County home demonstration agent, and Kenneth Ackerman, associate county agent, left the courthouse after work, to be met by a blast from a shotgun. Four pellets hit Ackerman on the arm and leg. Miss Fonner was struck on the hip and foot. David, in what words he could find to tell about it, admitted to his mother that he pulled the trigger.

Human Relations 'Errors' Cited

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Widespread misunderstanding of the purpose of human relations has "interfered significantly with the effectiveness of industrial enterprise in recent years," an Ohio educator said here yesterday.

Dr. Douglas McGregor, president of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, described as a "major error in judgment" the assumption that personnel administration consists largely in dealing with human relations. He told a group of industrial executives this attitude would be the same as thinking of the engineering function as "solely the process of repairing equipment when it breaks down."

Stiffer Ryder Cup Matches Being Urged By Jim Demaret

NEW YORK (AP)—The time has come, says Jimmy Demaret, when the golfing officials of this country and Great Britain either should do something toward making a genuine contest out of the Ryder Cup team matches or abandon them entirely.

For once, the game's laughing boy wasn't cracking a smile as he discussed the never-ending string of American victories in the biennial matches between the top professionals of the two countries. He said he was genuinely disturbed about it.

"Believe me, we make no friends in England or anywhere else by continuing to hang it on those fellows," he declared. "I know, because I've heard them talk about it. They feel that it isn't quite fair to match our pros, who play for big money the year around, against men whose main occupation is teaching.

"If they didn't beat us this year — and they didn't — there's no chance that they ever will. That team we sent over was the worst in history, but it still won."

Jimmy, who still holds the distinction of being the only three-time winner of the Augusta Masters event, was not a member of our most recent team. He hastened to add this had not warped his judgment.

"If they're going to hold the thing at all," Jimmy persisted, "they should at least throw it open to all the professionals in the British Commonwealth. If this year's British team had included Bobby Locke of South Africa, Peter Thompson and Norman Van Nida of Australia and a Canadian or two, the result might have been very different."

Having got that off his chest, the former Texan consented to disclose what had brought him down to the city from his swank place of employment in the Catskills. He is preparing to star in a series of 13 movie shorts aimed at one of the national television hookups. He and Bob Brumby, who was the only writer to follow Ben Hogan all the way through Carnoustie the past summer, are working on the script.

"There hasn't been a really good instruction series since Bobby Jones made his some 30 years ago, and we think the country is ready for another one," Jimmy said. "Interest in the game is growing every day, especially since we elected a golfing President."

Bucks, 'Cats Among Weaker Big 10 Teams

COLUMBUS (AP) — Two of the weakest defensive teams in the Big Ten will try to outscore each other when Ohio State entertains Northwestern Saturday.

The Buckeyes are ninth in the conference defensively. The Wildcats are eighth.

The one-platoon system seems to have them both stymied when it comes to taking the ball away from the other team. But neither is a slouch when it comes to carting it across once they get their hands on it.

Ohio has been grooming its pass defenders against Dick Thomas, considered one of the best in the conference.

On the other hand, the 'Cats will need all the defensive strength they can muster to stop the hard-running crew of Bobby Watkins and company. Bulldozing Bob has rammed over nine touchdowns.

Big question facing the Bucks is Johnny Borton's status. Borton, the Bucks' top flight passer from Alliance, has missed the last two games because of an ankle injury.

He returned to practice Tuesday. Word from the drill field yesterday, though, was that Johnny would see limited action at best.

Ohio State brings a 3-1 record into this homecoming day game. Northwestern has won three and lost two.

Bullets Purchase All-America Cager

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mark Workman, 1951-52 All-America basketball player from West Virginia University, was purchased today by the Baltimore Bullets from the Philadelphia Warriors

The 6-foot-9 Workman was a disappointment in his rookie year last season for Milwaukee and Philadelphia, averaging only 5.1 points a game. In his last two seasons as a collegian, he averaged more than 25 points a game.

Coach Clair Bee of the Bullets said he was giving Workman a last chance because he has "youth, heighth and speed."

AP Guesspert Tries Again To Pick Winners

Spills Into Upset Gulch Leave Marks; Correct Average Now .766

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK (AP)—This forecaster suffered no broken bones but that spill into Upset Gulch last Saturday will leave permanent marks. Of 50 decisions, 38 were predicted correctly for an average of .760.

That's only a little worse than the season's figures, however, which show 196 correct and 48 wrong for .766.

There are more upsets in this list of forecasts but you will have to find them yourself:

Notre Dame over Navy: Navy had this game in mind last Saturday when it slumbered to a 9-6 defeat but Coach Frank Leahy's illness gives the Irish enough incentive to win.

West Virginia over Penn State: If the Mountaineers, who now have won 11 in a row, take this one they should go through the season unbeaten. They will have to check the passing of Tony Rados to do it.

Michigan State over Oregon State: This could be a massacre. Oregon State couldn't even score in its first five games.

Michigan over Penn: The Ivy Leaguers have no Paul Giel to torment the Wolverines. The Big Ten team will win with relative ease.

Minnesota over Pittsburgh: This is your TV feature of the day. Paul Giel, who completely demoralized Michigan last week, hardly will be as brilliant again but his mates should win. Pitt offers Eldred Kramer, a good tackle, in rebuttal.

UCLA over California: Paul Cameron to tear up the sod as UCLA moves anther step closer to that Rose Bowl job Jan. 1.

Southern Methodist over Texas: Anything can happen when two Texas teams play each other. The Mustangs defeated Kansas last week on a fumble and a pass interception. They have saved all their scoring plays for Texas.

Georgia Tech over Vanderbilt: Vanderbilt isn't Notre Dame.

Army over Tulane: The Cadets have discovered some backfield speed since that early season loss to Northwestern. Tulane hobbled by backfield injuries.

FRIDAY NIGHT

SATURDAY

South: Auburn over Florida, Wake Forest over Clemson, VMI over Florida State, Alabama over Georgia, Louisiana State over Mississippi, Mississippi State over Texas Tech, Willam & Mary over North Carolna State, North Caroline over Tennessee, Duke over Virginia, George Washington over line over Tennessee, Duke over Virginia, George Washington over Washington & Lee.

Midwest: Oklahoma over Kansas State, Colorado over Iowa State, Indiana over Missouri, Nebraska over Kansas, Ohio State over Northwestern, Oklahoma &M over Tulsa, Iowa over Wisconsin.

Southwest: Baylor over Texas Christian, Rice over Kentucky, Texas A&M over Arkansas, Arizona over West Texas State.

Far West: Southern Cal over Oregon, Idaho State over Montana State, New Mexico over Denver, Stanford over Washington State, Utah State over Montana, Washington over Utah, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Sugar Boy Gets Lush Offer To Make Come-Back In Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who came out of Harlem a skinny kid to become one of the greatest ring fighters of them all, has been a big timer all of his career, and he will not change now that he is playing the medium night clubs as a song-and-dance man.

When the Sugar Boy announces he has been urged to come out of retirement and challenge Bobo Olson for the middleweight title which he renounced only last year, the lure dangled before him is not any ordinary sum. It is a cool $350,000, a round figure worthy of the Robinson imagination.

The mere fact that the promoters would need to gross at least a million dollars at the gate and through television to pay off on such a guarantee didn't faze the great man.

There wasn't a doubt in our mind that the powerful international Boxing Club had, indeed, caught Robinson backstage and begged him for the sake of $350,000 and the present 48 states to attempt a comeback—until we stumbled over the concluding paragraph.

"Of course," Robinson was quoted as having said, "the final decision will have to be made by my manager, George Gainford."

That sounded a gong back somewhere in the inner recesses. Since when was Sugar Ray Robinson depending on "the Emperor," as Gainford is affectionately known, or anyone else to make his decisions for him It spoiled the whole story then and there, even before officials of the IBC professed their bewilderment.

It was always a little joke with Robinson during his brilliant career to pretend that he took his orders from Gainford, who was his manager of record. George, a huge and likeable Negro who ran a gymnasium in Harlem, took Sugar off the streets and made a fighter of him. It was to Robinson's credit that he never forsook his sponsor.

But the men on the fight beat knew almost from the first that not Gainford nor anyone else ever was to tell the gifted young pugilist what he was to do, either inside or outside the ring.

Always Sugar would grin and say, "You'll have to ask George about that," when reporters got him cornered, but the joke was shared. Nobody took him seriously, even though George sometime would be asked as a matter of courtesy within the trade.

Castellani Seeks Bout With Champ

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rocky Castellani wants a crack at middleweight champion Bob Olson just as half a dozen other challengers do.

The modest Clevelander, ranked No. 4 among middleweights, showed tremendous improvement last night in winning a unanimous decision against Mickey Laurent of France.

Sokolsky's

"It is no secret that dissention over the injection of the Communist Party line into the program and policies of the IU of MM and SW caused three waves of secession of locals during the past eight years as well as the isolation and the general distrust the International Union is suffering now."

There is another point to all this. The American worker is a patriotic citizen who does not regard himself as a proletarian. He often owns his own home; belongs to a church alongside the very boss for whom he works; his children go to high school and college. He votes in elections and sometimes runs for public office. He resents being made into a class-conscious stooge.

So he resents being classified as an agent of a foreign enemy. He resents anyone turning his union into an agency of a foreign enemy. This is what the Butte miners have to say on this subject:

"The official publication has not reflected the social, economic, and political thinking of the membership and has pursued a Communist 'blame America' — 'hate America' line on peace and other international issues."

This looks like a good fight for elementary Americanism against the control of a union by a foreign power. In the Fort Monmouth investigation of the McCarthy Committee, it is known that even in such a sensitive area, where our radar developments took place, a Communist union was organized.

This will all come out in detail when the hearings are open and will shock the country even as the Rosenberg trial shocked America. Communists, on orders of a foreign foe, could, if permitted to dominate a union, at a critical moment, use this power to interfere with American production.

The Communist-controlled union ought to be forbidden absolutely in this country.

Youth Tells Moments Of Pleasure, Regret And Trace Of Terror

Editor's Note: — Zander Hollander, 22-year-old University of Michigan graduate, recently made a tour of the Soviet Union. Here's his story of what it's like to be a young American on the loose in Russia—and a candid Soviet view of U. S. basketball.

By ZANDER HOLLANDER

NEW YORK (AP) — How does it feel to be a young American in the Soviet Union? There are moments of pleasure, regret—and a trace of terror.

I never was followed in the Soviet Union—I thought. Yet the searching finger of Soviet surveillance showed itself at odd times.

My first night in Moscow we politely refused when Intourist (the Soviet version of Traveler's Aid plus Chamber of Commerce) suggested we take a guide to the Stanislavski ballet.

But once there, a pleasant extrovert named Georgi, who spoke English, turned up in the next seat. He claimed to be a teacher at a language institute. Afterwards he invited us for a drink.

At the Cuktyel Holl a crowd of Muscovites was clamoring for entry. But Georgi said a word to the doorman and we were in, another word to the waitress and a special table was set up for us.

A couple of muscular characters at the bar shouted greetings to him.

"Your friends" I asked.

"Yes," he smiled confusedly. "They teach at the institute too."

Comrade Fedotova, for 25 years a teacher in the Moscow elementary schools, showed how effectively the Soviets can arouse patriotism among their citizens.

She was a stolid woman in her late 50s, but like most Russian women she looked 10 years older. Yet she looked young when she told of the grandest experience of her life—the day five years ago when she received the Order of Lenin from Nicolai Shvernik, then President of the Supreme Soviet.

"Comrade Shvernik congratulated me personally for my service to the people as a teacher," she said. "This high honor has made me work harder. I will strive to do my best till the closing days of my life."

Mme. Fedotova and the other teachers who got medals turned down the cash awards of thousands of rubles which went with them.

"It is the honor that counts," she told me. "I will never forget it."

There was no doubting her sincerity.

The day I went to the American Embassy, the cabbie took me to the old one—now locked and shuttered. He wanted his fare, and I wouldn't pay.

Enter the MVD militia on the side of the cabbie. I still refused to pay because I hadn't been taken where I wanted to go.

Enter more MVD, this time speaking German. The argument shifted into "Ja" versus "Nein."

Enter more MVD, English-speaking this time—and I won my case.

"This man is a guest of the Soviet Union," the MVD man told the glum cabbie. "Take him where he asked to go and forget this fare. Next time know where you are going."

In a drably modern student room at Moscow state university I learned how Russian kids like their basketball. In a make-believe scrimmage we agreed that Russians favor a "possession" game, relying on set shots and holding onto the ball to win.

But the "fast break"—which dominates the game in the United States — is getting popular. The Russians had seen the "razzle-dazzle" tactics of the Americans at the Olympic Games, and anything we could do they could do better.

My money is still on the Madison Square Garden variety of basketball.

The editor of Komsomolskaya Pravda, Comrade Gorunov, insited that his newspaper—the organ of the Young Communist League—had free access to news from America.

"Our foreign department gets the New York Times and Herald-Tribune every day," he said.

Surprised at this first sign of American newspapers, we wanted to see for ourselves. They were nowhere in sight.

The English-language news editor had a ready explanation: "They are taken away when I'm through with them—I don't know where. I recall that your President Eisenhower made a speech a few days ago."

It was possible the speech had been run in the Moscow press, so I asked what he'd said.

Gorunov scowled.

"I'm sorry," stammered the English-language news editor, "but my English is not very good."

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Plenty of pumpkins for Hallowe'en and good buys in roast lamb and pork chops for weekend feasting are available in many of the nation's food stores this week. Beef prices in some areas are a shade higher.

The pumpkin situation is described by market sources as highly favorable. Aided by a prolonged dry spell in many growing areas, the harvest has been more than abundant and pumpkins now on the market are of better - than - usual quality and reasonably priced. They are tagged as a good buy for their food value as well as for Hallowe'en frolicking by the small fry.

Standout buys on most meat counters across the country are lamb and pork. One nationwide chain is featuring roast leg of lamb and lamb chops as its top meat specils for the coming weekend; another is slashing prices on center cut pork chops in some cities by 2 to 10 cents a pound.

Sirloin steak and beef rib roast are mostly unchanged or higher this week; fryers are about the same. Heavily promoted seafood specials include frozen ocean perch and frozen halibut steaks. Butter prices are up a little here and there despite the huge stocks in government warehouses; eggs are unchanged or slightly lower.

Practically all kinds of fruit are in plentiful supply for Hallowe'en menus. Apples again head the list—whether of the eating or cooking variety, they are abundant and cheap. Grapefruit, down in price from last week, is listed as a good buy; Florida oranges are also down, but the Californias are higher. Grapes, particularly the Red Tokay variety, are priced to appeal to thrifty buyers.

Best buys on vegetable counters in most areas include spinach, cabbages, onions and potatoes. Running a close second are cauliflower, peppers, carrots, broccoli, sweet potatoes and brussels sprouts. Want to try an avocado pear? They're plentiful and cheap right now.

If you've had difficulty finding Idaho potatoes at your favorite food store, here's the reason: With spuds generally in surplus supply, prices received by farmers for the big Idaho variety are only about half what they were last year. So growers are holding back a large part of the crop and putting it into storage.

Comedian Target Of Damage Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Suit for $1,017,000 damages has been filed by writer Lewis Meltzer against comedian Danny Thomas and the producers of his television show.

Meltzer charges that Louis F. Edelman, Martero Productions and Thomas orally approved his format for Thomas' series of half-hour shows. He claims he was promised $1,500 a show as chief writer, 5 per cent of the profits and royalties if his format was accepted. Meltzer contends it is his format that is being used.

like washday without an Electric dryer

Yes, it's old fashioned to continue to let the Sun fade colors in your clothes. An electric dryer is the only dryer on the market today that will not fade colors. For only an electric dryer uses clean ... non-fading ... infra-red heat to gently dry clothes. And even after months of washing and drying ... white things stay dazzling white ... colors sparkling bright. You'll be pleasantly surprised to find your clothes come out of an electric dryer kitten soft ... wrinkle-free ... damp or bone dry ... simply by setting a dial.

Remember, ALL clothes dryers use electricity ... so choose the one that's ALL ELECTRIC!

Pumpkin Show Still Big Chance For Town's Strange People

Motor Vehicle Expert Blasts Selfish Drivers

Window Rattler Was Halloween Gadget To Get Results

By ED McCANN
Herald Staff Writer

Little Acts in Circleville's Passing Show:

The gay little sidelights in the story of the 1953 Pumpkin Show are still being compared for top honors, but it will have to be a good one to pass up the tale of the guy who tried on shirts in a downtown store. In a quiet, brief way, it had the qualities to make the passersby stop, stare and snort: "I don't believe it."

Seems the gentleman walked casually into the mid-town store during the height of the Saturday night rush and calmly began to survey a pile of shirts laid out on the counter. After fingering the lot for a moment, he got an inspiration and promptly doffed the shirt he was wearing and laid it aside. Then he tried on one of the shirts—while customers on all sides rubbed their eyes and the clerks elbowed one another and whispered about calling the manager.

But the whole incident was charming in its surprise, and the gentleman shopper was permitted to try on two more shirts after he decided he didn't like the first one! And that did it. He promptly decided No. 2 looked best and felt most comfortable for a Pumpkin Show's Saturday night. He put No. 2 on again, picked up his old shirt, paid the girl and wandered aimlessly out of the store—while the watching public gaped and giggled. The man didn't say a word.

Then there's the story about a stranger who knocked on the front door, greeted the man who opened it, and then continued upstairs without further identification—while the man of the house looked on in amazement. Upstairs, the free and easy one tried a door knob, found the room locked and promptly came downstairs again—going out the door with another cheerful greeting.

The man who let him in doesn't know whether the guy thought he was in some other residence, whether it was something new in Halloween nonsense, or whether it's just a new twist in the American way of life. He figures the whole goofy affair took less than a half-minute or so.

And so it goes, with some of the best ones—as always—held for secret, private chuckling. In the strange ways of strange people, the annual Pumpkin Show continues to put on some of its top attractions without a bit of planning or benefit of program.

SNAP JUDGMENT Dept:

Wife (apologizing for her husband's absentminded failure to recognize ladies he really should know): "It isn't really because he's so thick in the head. It's just because he's a little slow with women." (Ha! That's what you think!)

SO MUCH HAS been said and written on highway safety that some law enforcement officers are beginning to think the whole effort should be called off and the energy switched to a consistent, rugged crackdown on violators. However, a recent blast by Don McClaugherty, president of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, carries so much solid truth that it merits at least a bit of repetition.

He told the National Association of Insurance Agents:

"The drunken drivers, the hit-and-run drivers and other major violators, as dangerous as they are, are not causing the majority of accidents. It is the average driver who ignores what he considers the minor details of the laws and regulations.

"It is the fellow who, when behind the wheel, loses all sense of courtesy and consideration for others."

And this, McClaugherty added, applies to all people, including those "in the so-called upper brackets of business, professions and society." He urged that violators be deprived of their driving privileges as perhaps the most effective wallop against death on the highways.

THINGS HAVE come to a pretty pass when they wire the offices of one of the mayoralty candidates for sound. Awhile back, while shouting down the stairway from his upstairs office, Bob Hedges was promptly contradicted by a voice that seemed to come from nowhere.

HALLOWEEN gadgets probably varied in different parts of the country before the current age when harmless tricks apparently aren't enough for some of the kids. But surely that "window rattler" used in Stark County rates an honored place in the fiendish ideas of yesteryear.

It was just an ordinary spool with notches cut along the edges, and with a good length of cord wrapped around the spool—all set for a sudden pull when the nicked edges were held against the window pane. Pat Scanlon got one of the sudden bursts late one night while he was reading The Battle of Gettysburg.

Patsy never explained why he kicked over the bread that was settling overnight, but friends whisper he thought it was a volley by Jeb Stuart's cavalry.

Much worse, with the Civil War theme, was a shock suffered not so long ago by the desk sergeant of the Waynesburg, Pa., police, who apparently hadn't been warned how the local college students like to dress up in museum uniforms one night each year for community monkeyshines. They say the sarge was alone at his desk during the wee hours and reading a thriller on how a Union spy was trying to sneak his way back to the northern lines.

It wasn't Halloween, the night had been very quiet, and the magazine article was good enough to drift the guardian of the law far from his duties. That's why he could only make motions with his mouth for awhile when he was suddenly ordered to turn around—and face grim-faced youths who wore Confederate uniforms and assured him he was their prisoner!

FAST TALK in the Great American Home:

Wife: "Don't get excited. They just electrocuted somebody down at the city jail."

'WARD' SKINNER IS A CONFIDENCE MAN!

Don't jump at conclusions when you see meat advertised at low prices per pound!

It's what you get for your money that counts. Any butcher can cut meat to give you portions of coarse meat and bone that you can't use any more than a tight-rope walker can use a wooden leg.

What's important in meat is the quality and the proper trimming . . . and that's where you can put your confidence in "Ward" Skinner.

All meats sold at Ward's Market are the finest, properly trimmed, and honestly advertised.

Maybe the Packing Houses think "Ward" is an old fuss-budget for being so finicky when he buys, but one look at the cash register proves he knows what Circleville housewives want!

Tigers To Tangle With Balanced Greenfield Crew In Friday Game

Circleville's Red and Black Tiger football team will meet a well-balanced and determined Greenfield McClain crew Friday night in their bid for the 1953 South Central Ohio League championship.

The Greenfielders are to put a medium-sized offensive unit into operation against the CHS'ers in the encounter.

Greenfield officials said the McClain offensive lineup calls for a line averaging about 165 pounds and a backfield somewhat about the same, with its heaviest attacker the 175-pound fullback.

On defense, however, two large tackles in the 200-pound class will be shoved into the lineup, part of the Greenfield advantage in reserve strength. The McClain clan is to dress about 35 players for the encounter, while Circleville probably will field only about 30 lads.

BOTH TEAMS appear about equal in the ability of their backs to carry the ball into the enemy paydirt. Neither team has an outstanding scoring back, but each has a lineup of backfielders who have been scoring alternately throughout the season.

Greenfield is bringing an unblemished season record to date into Friday's fracas, while the Tigers will enter the fray with two losses in six starts. Both teams are undefeated in league play to date.

Circleville has advanced in league play to make a bid for the title by defeating Wilmington, 37-7; and Hillsboro, 15-14. Greenfield's title shot comes as the result of victories over Washington C. H., 40-0; and Wilmington, 41-0.

After Friday's match, both Greenfied and Circleville have one more league encounter ahead of them. Circleville has yet to meet Washington C. H.; which has been making weak showings this season; and Greenfield must yet meet the Indians of Hillsboro, who gave the Tigers a rugged time of it in their meeting.

Probable starting lineup for the invading McClain clan will be:

Ends—John Tudor and Earl Miller.

Tackles — Charles Karnes and Wayne Keplinger.

Center—Carl Manley.

Quarterback—Norman Irvin.

Halfbacks—Russ Shonkwiler and Dutch Purdin.

Fullback—Tom Hicks.

The Greenfield team is to be clad in blue jersies and gold pants for the battle here. Tiger gridders will be clad in white jersies and red pants.

Circleville is to wind up its pregame practice sessions Thursday evening in an under-the-lights workout at the high school field. Kickoff time for Friday's crucial SCOL match will be 8 p. m.

'Skins Ready For Battle With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Washington's Redskins, who came within 12 minutes of grabbing the league lead the first time they met Cleveland, limp into Ohio Sunday for another shot at Coach Paul Brown's undefeated Browns.

The 'Skins, unbeaten until they met Cleveland two weeks ago, led the Browns by one point early in the fourth period of the first game. But then Cleveland's Otto Graham pitched to Dante Lavelli for a 26-yard touchdown.

Brown, of course, expects more trouble this time. "It's always harder the second time you play a team," he says. "Especially when you've won the first one.

"Then, too, our fellows have been on a pretty sharp mental edge for two weeks in a row.

"We were up for Washington and even higher for the (New York) Giants last Sunday.

"That doesn't go on forever. There's bound to be a letup and that's when your upset occurs."

Dick McCann, the Washington general manager, takes issue with that theory, at least where the Browns are concerned.

He contends Brown "must be a master psychologist. Other teams have letdowns and get pushed over by opponents that didn't figure to beat 'em. That never—or hardly ever—seems to happen to the Browns."

Booster Meeting Planned Tuesday

A meeting of Circleville High School sports followers will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the high school social rooms to reorganize the Circleville Booster Club.

Tuesday's Booster reorganization meeting is expected to be well attended. Approximately 170 Booster Club membership tickets have been sold to date.

Giel Leading Statistics In Big 10 Tally

CHICAGO (AP) — Halfback Paul Giel of Minnesota, who will be seen by millions Saturday in the nationally-televised football game against Pittsburgh, is dominating Big Ten statistics.

The All-America leads the conference in total offense with a gain of 602 yards in four games. He is second in rushing with 397, and second in passing with a .545 completion average and a gain of 227.

As a safety man on defense, Giel tops the league on punt returns with a 16.6 average in eight runbacks. He is second in pass interceptions with three and second in kickoff returns with a 25.6 average.

Although Giel is dominating the records, his pace is not as sensational on offense as Illinois' sophomore star, J. C. Caroline, who in only two Big Ten games, leads in rushing with 397 for a spectacular average per carry of 8.8. Giel's average is 3.8.

John Borton, Ohio State quarterback who missed one game with injury, is ranked No. 1 passing. He has completed 18 out of 31 tosses in two games for a .581 completion mark. His aerial gain has been 219.

Caroline is second on total offense, his record being based strictly on running since he has not thrown a pass. Third is Indiana's Florian Helinski, who has made all but one of his total 357 yards by passing.

Cards Remodel From Ground Up

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, building for a National League pennant, are building from the ground up.

They're remodeling Busch Stadium from top to bottom.

Included in the face lifting are new seats (measuring 21 inches across the beam as compared to the old 18-inch width) new dugouts, new player clubhouses and a new drainage system for the infield.

Also on tap in the million-dollar program, to be completed by opening day next spring, is a genuine garden in what once were the center field bleachers.

Stiffer Ryder Cup Matches Being Urged By Jim Demaret

NEW YORK (AP)—The time has come, says Jimmy Demaret, when the golfing officials of this country and Great Britain either should do something toward making a genuine contest out of the Ryder Cup team matches or abandon them entirely.

For once, the game's laughing boy wasn't cracking a smile as he discussed the never-ending string of American victories in the biennial matches between the top professionals of the two countries. He said he was genuinely disturbed about it.

"Believe me, we make no friends in England or anywhere else by continuing to hang it on those fellows," he declared. "I know, because I've heard them talk about it. They feel that it isn't quite fair to match our pros, who play for big money the year around, against men whose main occupation is teaching.

"If they didn't beat us this year — and they didn't — there's no chance that they ever will. That team we sent over was the worst in history, but it still won."

Jimmy, who still holds the distinction of being the only three-time winner of the Augusta Masters event, was not a member of our most recent team. He hastened to add this had not warped his judgment.

"If they're going to hold the thing at all," Jimmy persisted, "they should at least throw it open to all the professionals in the British Commonwealth. If this year's British team had included Bobby Locke of South Africa, Peter Thompson and Norman Van Nida of Australia and a Canadian or two, the result might have been very different."

Having got that off his chest, the former Texan consented to disclose what had brought him down to the city from his swank place of employment in the Catskills. He is preparing to star in a series of 13 movie shorts aimed at one of the national television hookups. He and Bob Brumby, who was the only writer to follow Ben Hogan all the way through Carnoustie the past summer, are working on the script.

"There hasn't been a really good instruction series since Bobby Jones made his some 30 years ago, and we think the country is ready for another one," Jimmy said. "Interest in the game is growing every day, especially since we elected a golfing President."

Bucks, 'Cats Among Weaker Big 10 Teams

COLUMBUS (AP) — Two of the weakest defensive teams in the Big Ten will try to outscore each other when Ohio State entertains Northwestern Saturday.

The Buckeyes are ninth in the conference defensively. The Wildcats are eighth.

The one-platoon system seems to have them both stymied when it comes to taking the ball away from the other team. But neither is a slouch when it comes to carting it across once they get their hands on it.

Ohio has been grooming its pass defenders against Dick Thomas, considered one of the best in the conference.

On the other hand, the 'Cats will need all the defensive strength they can muster to stop the hard-running crew of Bobby Watkins and company. Bulldozing Bob has rammed over nine touchdowns.

Big question facing the Bucks is Johnny Borton's status. Borton, the Bucks' top flight passer from Alliance, has missed the last two games because of an ankle injury

He returned to practice Tuesday. Word from the drill field yesterday, though, was that Johnny would see limited action at best.

Ohio State brings a 3-1 record into this homecoming day game. Northwestern has won three and lost two.

Bullets Purchase All-America Cager

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mark Workman, 1951-52 All-America basketball player from West Virginia University, was purchased today by the Baltimore Bullets from the Philadelphia Warriors

The 6-foot-9 Workman was a disappointment in his rookie year last season for Milwaukee and Philadelphia, averaging only 5.1 points a game. In his last two seasons as a collegian, he averaged more than 25 points a game.

Coach Clair Bee of the Bullets said he was giving Workman a last chance because he has "youth, heighth and speed."

Spills Into Upset Gulch Leave Marks; Correct Average Now .766

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK (AP)—This forecaster suffered no broken bones but that spill into Upset Gulch last Saturday will leave permanent marks. Of 50 decisions, 38 were predicted correctly for an average of .760.

That's only a little worse than the season's figures, however, which show 196 correct and 48 wrong for .766.

There are more upsets in this list of forecasts but you will have to find them yourself:

Notre Dame over Navy: Navy had this game in mind last Saturday when it slumbered to a 9-6 defeat but Coach Frank Leahy's illness gives the Irish enough incentive to win.

West Virginia over Penn State: If the Mountaineers, who now have won 11 in a row, take this one they should go through the season unbeaten. They will have to check the passing of Tony Rados to do it.

Michigan State over Oregon State: This could be a massacre. Oregon State couldn't even score in its first five games.

Michigan over Penn: The Ivy Leaguers have no Paul Giel to torment the Wolverines. The Big Ten team will win with relative ease.

Minnesota over Pittsburgh: This is your TV feature of the day. Paul Giel, who completely demoralized Michigan last week, hardly will be as brilliant again but his mates should win. Pitt offers Eldred Kramer, a good tackle, in rebuttal.

UCLA over California: Paul Cameron to tear up the sod as UCLA moves anther step closer to that Rose Bowl job Jan. 1.

Southern Methodist over Texas: Anything can happen when two Texas teams play each other. The Mustangs defeated Kansas last week on a fumble and a pass interception. They have saved all their scoring plays for Texas.

Georgia Tech over Vanderbilt: Vanderbilt isn't Notre Dame.

Army over Tulane: The Cadets have discovered some backfield speed since that early season loss to Northwestern. Tulane hobbled by backfield injuries.

Illinois over Purdue: Purdue has won its game of the year.

FRIDAY NIGHT

SATURDAY

South: Auburn over Florida, Wake Forest over Clemson, VMI over Florida State, Alabama over Georgia, Louisiana State over Mississippi, Mississippi State over Texas Tech, Willam & Mary over North Carolna State, North Caroline over Tennessee, Duke over Virginia, George Washington over line over Tennessee, Duke over Virginia, George Washington over Washington & Lee.

Midwest: Oklahoma over Kansas State, Colorado over Iowa State, Indiana over Missouri, Nebraska over Kansas, Ohio State over Northwestern, Oklahoma &M over Tulsa, Iowa over Wisconsin.

Southwest: Baylor over Texas Christian, Rice over Kentucky, Texas A&M over Arkansas, Arizona over West Texas State.

Far West: Southern Cal over Oregon, Idaho State over Montana State, New Mexico over Denver, Stanford over Washington State, Utah State over Montana, Washington over Utah, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Sugar Boy Gets Lush Offer To Make Come-Back In Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who came out of Harlem a skinny kid to become one of the greatest ring fighters of them all, has been a big timer all of his career, and he will not change now that he is playing the medium night clubs as a song-and-dance man.

When the Sugar Boy announces he has been urged to come out of retirement and challenge Bobo Olson for the middleweight title which he renounced only last year, the lure dangled before him is not any ordinary sum. It is a cool $350,000, a round figure worthy of the Robinson imagination.

The mere fact that the promoters would need to gross at least a million dollars at the gate and through television to pay off on such a guarantee didn't faze the great man.

There wasn't a doubt in our mind that the powerful international Boxing Club had, indeed, caught Robinson backstage and begged him for the sake of $350,000 and the present 48 states to attempt a comeback—until we stumbled over the concluding paragraph.

"Of course," Robinson was quoted as having said, "the final decision will have to be made by my manager, George Gainford."

That sounded a gong back somewhere in the inner recesses. Since when was Sugar Ray Robinson depending on "the Emperor," as Gainford is affectionately known, or anyone else to make his decisions for him It spoiled the whole story then and there, even before officials of the IBC professed their bewilderment.

It was always a little joke with Robinson during his brilliant career to pretend that he took his orders from Gainford, who was his manager of record. George, a huge and likeable Negro who ran a gymnasium in Harlem, took Sugar off the streets and made a fighter of him. It was to Robinson's credit that he never forsook his sponsor.

But the men on the fight beat knew almost from the first that not Gainford nor anyone else ever was to tell the gifted young pugilist what he was to do, either inside or outside the ring.

Always Sugar would grin and say, "You'll have to ask George about that," when reporters got him cornered, but the joke was shared. Nobody took him seriously, even though George sometime would be asked as a matter of courtesy within the trade.

Castellani Seeks Bout With Champ

The modest Clevelander, ranked No. 4 among middleweights, showed tremendous improvement last night in winning a unanimous decision against Mickey Laurent of France.

Sokolsky's

"It is no secret that dissention over the injection of the Communist Party line into the program and policies of the IU of MM and SW caused three waves of secession of locals during the past eight years as well as the isolation and the general distrust the International Union is suffering now."

There is another point to all this. The American worker is a patriotic citizen who does not regard himself as a proletarian. He often owns his own home; belongs to a church alongside the very boss for whom he works; his children go to high school and college. He votes in elections and sometimes runs for public office. He resents being made into a class-conscious stooge.

So he resents being classified as an agent of a foreign enemy. He resents anyone turning his union into an agency of a foreign enemy. This is what the Butte miners have to say on this subject:

"The official publication has not reflected the social, economic, and political thinking of the membership and has pursued a Communist 'blame America' — 'hate America' line on peace and other international issues."

This looks like a good fight for elementary Americanism against the control of a union by a foreign power. In the Fort Monmouth investigation of the McCarthy Committee, it is known that even in such a sensitive area, where our radar developments took place, a Communist union was organized.

This will all come out in detail when the hearings are open and will shock the country even as the Rosenberg trial shocked America. Communists, on orders of a foreign foe, could, if permitted to dominate a union, at a critical moment, use this power to interfere with American production.

The Communist-controlled union ought to be forbidden absolutely in this country.

Little Acts in Circleville's Passing Show:

The gay little sidelights in the story of the 1953 Pumpkin Show are still being compared for top honors, but it will have to be a good one to pass up the tale of the guy who tried on shirts in a downtown store. In a quiet, brief way, it had the qualities to make the passersby stop, stare and snort: "I don't believe it."

Seems the gentleman walked casually into the mid-town store during the height of the Saturday night rush and calmly began to survey a pile of shirts laid out on the counter. After fingering the lot for a moment, he got an inspiration and promptly doffed the shirt he was wearing and laid it aside. Then he tried on one of the shirts—while customers on all sides rubbed their eyes and the clerks elbowed one another and whispered about calling the manager.

But the whole incident was charming in its surprise, and the gentleman shopper was permitted to try on two more shirts after he decided he didn't like the first one! And that did it. He promptly decided No. 2 looked best and felt most comfortable for a Pumpkin Show's Saturday night. He put No. 2 on again, picked up his old shirt, paid the girl and wandered aimlessly out of the store—while the watching public gaped and giggled. The man didn't say a word.

Then there's the story about a stranger who knocked on the front door, greeted the man who opened it, and then continued upstairs without further identification—while the man of the house looked on in amazement. Upstairs, the free and easy one tried a door knob, found the room locked and promptly came downstairs again—going out the door with another cheerful greeting.

The man who let him in doesn't know whether the guy thought he was in some other residence, whether it was something new in Halloween nonsense, or whether it's just a new twist in the American way of life. He figures the whole goofy affair took less than a half-minute or so.

And so it goes, with some of the best ones—as always—held for secret, private chuckling. In the strange ways of strange people, the annual Pumpkin Show continues to put on some of its top attractions without a bit of planning or benefit of program.

SNAP JUDGMENT Dept:

Wife (apologizing for her husband's absentminded failure to recognize ladies he really should know): "It isn't really because he's so thick in the head. It's just because he's a little slow with women." (Ha! That's what you think!)

SO MUCH HAS been said and written on highway safety that some law enforcement officers are beginning to think the whole effort should be called off and the energy switched to a consistent, rugged crackdown on violators. However, a recent blast by Don McClaugherty, president of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, carries so much solid truth that it merits at least a bit of repetition.

He told the National Association of Insurance Agents:

"The drunken drivers, the hit-and-run drivers and other major violators, as dangerous as they are, are not causing the majority of accidents. It is the average driver who ignores what he considers the minor details of the laws and regulations.

"It is the fellow who, when behind the wheel, loses all sense of courtesy and consideration for others."

And this, McClaugherty added, applies to all people, including those "in the so-called upper brackets of business, professions and society." He urged that violators be deprived of their driving privileges as perhaps the most effective wallop against death on the highways.

THINGS HAVE come to a pretty pass when they wire the offices of one of the mayoralty candidates for sound. Awhile back, while shouting down the stairway from his upstairs office, Bob Hedges was promptly contradicted by a voice that seemed to come from nowhere.

HALLOWEEN gadgets probably varied in different parts of the country before the current age when harmless tricks apparently aren't enough for some of the kids. But surely that "window rattler" used in Stark County rates an honored place in the fiendish ideas of yesteryear.

It was just an ordinary spool with notches cut along the edges, and with a good length of cord wrapped around the spool—all set for a sudden pull when the nicked edges were held against the window pane. Pat Scanlon got one of the sudden bursts late one night while he was reading The Battle of Gettysburg.

Patsy never explained why he kicked over the bread that was settling overnight, but friends whisper he thought it was a volley by Jeb Stuart's cavalry.

Much worse, with the Civil War theme, was a shock suffered not so long ago by the desk sergeant of the Waynesburg, Pa., police, who apparently hadn't been warned how the local college students like to dress up in museum uniforms one night each year for community monkeyshines. They say the sarge was alone at his desk during the wee hours and reading a thriller on how a Union spy was trying to sneak his way back to the northern lines.

It wasn't Halloween, the night had been very quiet, and the magazine article was good enough to drift the guardian of the law far from his duties. That's why he could only make motions with his mouth for awhile when he was suddenly ordered to turn around—and face grim-faced youths who wore Confederate uniforms and assured him he was their prisoner!

FAST TALK in the Great American Home:

Husband: (when the home lights suddenly flickered) "Whazat?"

Wife: "Don't get excited. They just electrocuted somebody down at the city jail."

'WARD' SKINNER IS A CONFIDENCE MAN!

It's what you get for your money that counts. Any butcher can cut meat to give you portions of coarse meat and bone that you can't use any more than a tight-rope walker can use a wooden leg.

What's important in meat is the quality and the proper trimming . . . and that's where you can put your confidence in "Ward" Skinner.

All meats sold at Ward's Market are the finest, properly trimmed, and honestly advertised.

Maybe the Packing Houses think "Ward" is an old fuss-budget for being so finicky when he buys, but one look at the cash register proves he knows what Circleville housewives want!
